Only This: We Want You.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE CONFERENCE of nations in London disbands, with the Germans expressing gratitude to us, but unhappy, and London's bank rate raised violently, according to British ideas, to save further draining of London's gold by France. Germans go back to Berlin disappointed, taking no ready money with them, with "nothing remotely adequate" done to relieve Germany's situation.

You will not be surprised to learn that the London Times criticizes the United States for "evading the real issues."

We voluntarily allowed Germany, France and Britain to discontinue their payments to us for one year, a new kind of evasion.

WITH BRITISH statesmen packing up for their grouse shooting, this government will consider conditions here at home, where we also edit a considerable "Help Wanted" page.

Perhaps the United States States could revise its childish attitude toward Russia, and forget that American bankers failed to get back money that they lent to the Czar and Kerensky when a weanling child should have known better.

Robert C. Lee, intelligent American business man, back from Russia, says our best market will be found there. It will be, if our government gets over the idea that it was created to tell other nations how to run their own affairs.

MEANWHILE THE British have recently sold $30,000,000 worth of machinery and other supplies to Russia and are selling to Russia at the rate of $500,000 a day. When this was announced in Parliament, several anti-Russian conservatives experienced a change of heart.

Today's dispatches report constantly closer friendly and commercial relations between France and Russia. France is understood to be preparing a "non-aggression pact" with Moscow, an agreement to let each other alone and do business. Russia has canceled decrees forbidding purchases in France, and will soon be placing large orders there.

And our nation looks on like a sulky little boy at a party saying:

"I won't play with you."

AMERICANS ARE interested in the "biggest" things, proud of Niagara Falls, Pike's Peak, the giant redwood trees, curious to see the Canadian Pacific's new "biggest engine on the American continent," hauling a train more than 7,000 feet long.

More important than the biggest locomotive destined soon to join the dinosaur, because it is not modern, is the largest Diesel engine plant in the world.

VERNON, CAL., has placed an order for Diesel engines developing 35,000 horsepower, to produce electric energy for the city's various industries. The engines will be built by the Hooven, Owens, Rentschler Company, of Hamilton, O., subsidiary of General Machiney Corporation.

Other cities should investigate the economies made possible by Diesel engines and cheap oil. Small Diesel engines will soon be as numerous as churns, on farms.

OUR CRIME WAVE continues its picturesque course. Johnny Hanna, called chief lieutenant of Sam Zuccaro, New Jersey Democratic leader, was in his car in front of Zuccaro's Club in Union City, when two gentlemen appeared carrying "automatics and handcuffs."

They only said to Hanna "We want you," handcuffed him, forced him into their automobile and drove away. The police say:

"He will never come back."

RIVALRY AMONG gamblers is supposed to be the cause of the trouble. But what could a Democratic leader have to do with that?

As he was led away, Hanna begged club members to help him. They saw the guns and did not move. The automatic has the last word, in our civilization.

MARVELOUS IS Japanese politeness.

Mr. Nagata, an amateur astronomer of Brawley, Cal., telegraphed Mt. Wilson Observatory, begging pardon for disturbing that serious institution with his pointless remarks, and asking if it could possibly be true that he, Nagata, had discovered a new comet with his small telescope.

Sure enough he had discovered it, in the constellation of Leo, and modest Nagata takes his place among inter-stellar discoverers. "Nagata's Comet" will go sailing through space, with Halley's, for ages to come and men, enlightened, will not believe it means pestilence or the world's end.

IF YOU ARE moaning because stocks have dropped, consider the farmer who put his honest money into honest farm land. Some stocks, yours perhaps, have fallen with a speed that would make Lucifer falling from Heaven look as though he carried several parachutes.

Farm values have not fallen so spectacularly, but they have dropped in value about eighteen billion, four hundred millions of dollars. That means a shrinkage of the average farm from $10,284 to $7,614, and, to the farmer, that seems like "real money."

SCIENTISTS TO CRUISE IN ARCTIC 6 DAYS

Leningrad Last Port for Dirigible Before Heading North With Its Notables

International News Service.

BERLIN, July 24.—The Graf Zeppelin, en route to Leningrad and the Arctic on a scientific, exploring expedition, arrived over the city of Berlin at 5 p. m. today.

The airship continued to circle slowly over the city, waiting for sundown and cooler air. It landed at Staaken Airfield at 6 p. m.

Sixteen passengers and a crew of 30 were aboard the dirigible when it left its hangar on the shores of Lake Constance this morning. At Leningrad, a second halt was planned prior to invasion of the Arctic wastes.

Flying under the emblem of the International Aero-Arctic Society, the Graf's trip attracted a number of explorers and scientists. The American passengers were Lincoln C. Ellsworth, American explorer who accompanied Raold Amundsen and Gen. Umberto Nobile across the North Pole in the dirigible Norge, and Lieut. Comm. Edward H. Smith of the United States Ice Patrol.

The huge dirigible was equipped with pontoons to enable an emergency descent upon arctic waters if necessary.

Passengers and crew face no danger of starvation, even in the event of disaster. The Graf carries 9,310 pounds of comestibles, including four tons of pemmican, which will keep the voyagers alive for months in an emergency.

Steel Rumor Depresses Market

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP.)—A growing conviction that the United States Steel Corporation will reduce its common dividend when directors meet next week, together with continued losses of gold by the Bank of England, kept Wall street in a cheerless frame of mind today.

Financial markets were generally heavy, although the stock market remained extremely quiet, and prices recovered a little after early setbacks of $1 to $2 in several of the principal issues. United States Steel sold off $2 a share, then came back a little.

It is now on a $7 annual dividend basis. Wall street now looks for a $5, or possibly $4 rate.

MIGHTY GRAF ZEPPELIN

CO-ED MISSING, BLAME SQUAWS

SPRINGERVILLE, Ariz., July 24.—(INS.)—Fear that Miss Henrietta Schmeler, pretty 25-year-old Columbia University co-ed, sent by the university into the wild Apache country near here to study Indians and Indian conditions, had been murdered by jealous squaws and her body hidden, was expressed today by investigating officers.

Miss Schmeler, who had been friendly with Apache braves since her arrival here, vanished from her cabin at East Fork, near the Apache reservation at White River, Saturday.

Claude Gilbert, a young Apache, was held by reservation officials and questioned.

Gun Wound, River Plunge Fail Would-Be Suicide

Firing two shots at himself, only one of which took effect, Joseph Balbis, 45, of 1332 Western avenue, plunged into the Ohio River at the foot of Belmont street at noon today and was rescued by bathers, according to a police report. Balbis was taken to Presbyterian Hospital where it was said he probably would recover.

Employes of the Crucible Steel Company told police that Balbis first fired a shot while on the river bank, but it evidently went wild. A second shot struck him in the right side. Walter Graf, of 1122 Wolfendale street, mill employe, sought to disarm Balbis as the later entered the mill yard and said he was threatened. Balbis then walked to an abutment in the river and shouted to Mike Allen, of 807 Manhattan street, who was swimming:

"I think I'll jump in."

According to Allen, Balbis removed his coat and leaped into the river. Allen and other bathers dragged him from the river and summoned police.

LITTLE OUT AGAINST MACKRELL

KLINE AGREES TO MEDIATE IN TAXI STRIKE

'Friend of Labor,' Mayor Says, Posing for Camera; Man Beaten, Cab Burned

Mayor Charles H. Kline today accepted a request of the Central Labor Council that he act as mediator in the six-week strike of Pittsburgh's taxicab drivers.

A delegation from the labor council, headed by its secretary, P. J. McGrath, called on Kline this morning and was admitted to his office after having been refused an audience on two previous days because the mayor was "too busy."

'FRIEND OF LABOR'

At conclusion of the conference the mayor came out of his office, posed for one picture with the labor council committee, which included several of the strike leaders, and for another with the Settlement Committee of Drivers, an organization attempting to effect a settlement of the strike independent of the Taxicab Drivers' Union. Then he said:

"These men came to me because I am considered a friend of labor in Pittsburgh.

"They asked me to act as mediator in the taxi strike and arrange a conference between officials of the Parmelee company and the labor union and the drivers.

"I told them I will endeavor to do so at once.

"I have high hopes that the difficulties can be speedily eliminated to the satisfaction of all concerned."

The settlement committee was admitted to Kline's office a few minutes later. Its members told the mayor that it had been assured a great majority of the drivers was ready to return to

2 POLICE DRUNK, SAYS VICTIM OF BURGLAR

Brought Liquor, Offered Mate Drink, She Charges; Marauder Makes Getway

Two city patrolmen, investigating a robbery in the Morrowfield Apartment Hotel, early today offered A. Harry Groudine, the robber's victim, a drink of liquor, according to Mrs. Groudine.

Summoned to the apartment at 4:30 o'clock after the robber had departed with $15 in cash and a $200 check, the policemen were intoxicated, according to Mrs. Groudine.

For 15 minutes Mrs. Groudine had watched the man ransack the apartment and then disappear in the hallway. When he had gone she said she called the hotel office. Two policemen responded and according to Mrs. Groudine they said they had been waiting for the robber to appear.

DRINK OFFERED

Mrs. Groudine said she called to her husband, using his given name, and when he appeared one of the officers produced a flask and said:

"Hello, Harry, have a drink."

According to Mrs. Groudine, the policemen asked a few questions concerning the robbery and then notified the police station. Mrs. Groudine talked to the sergeant on duty, she said, and a short time later two other officers arrived, but the first two had gone at that time.

According to Mrs. Groudine, the two officers were seen later standing in Alderson avenue, opposite her apartment, one with his arm around the other's neck.

ASKS FOR TAXI

One of them said:

"Send me home in a taxi; I'll pay all expenses."

To which his companion replied:

"I'm not so sober myself."

A short time later they wandered away, she said.

Concerning the robbery, Mrs. Groudine said she tried to arouse her husband when she saw the man entering, but was afraid to make an outcry. She said she watched the intruder, a white man without a coat and dressed in white shirt and dark trousers, for 15 minutes. She said:

"As long as he didn't bother us I didn't mind."

Countess Jailed After Rum Party

Gay Hollywood Fete Ends in Arrest Of Celebrants

HOLLYWOOD, July 24.—(AP.)—A woman who said she was the Countess Enid von Krupp was arrested early today when a party in her apartment became so boisterous that neighbors called police.

Officers arrested the woman and four of her guests on charges of drunkenness. An additional charge of possession of liquor was filed against the occupant.

Those arrested gave the names of Count and Countess Analda Tassela Tamburini, Mrs. Sally McGowan, scenario writer, and Edward V. Brown, druggist, of Palm Springs, Cal.

The man who described himself as Tamburini assured police he was a renowned portrait painter, and said several rulers of Europe had sat for him. Police said they found the man who described himself as a count seeking refugee under a bed. His face was bruised.

According to officers, the woman describing herself as Countess von Krupp said the "party" was to celebrate her return from a recent visit to Chicago.

Fletcher, before becoming chairman of the tariff commission, had served 20 years in various capacities for the government. He formerly was ambassador to Italy. He at one time was undersecretary of state and had occupied other diplomatic posts. He served in the Rough Riders under Theodore Roosevelt.

COUNCILMAN IN RACE FOR REGISTER

Action Indicates Kline May Run Complete Ticket; Independent Chiefs Meet

The unexpected occurred again today as the fall political campaign warmed up, when William Herd, chairman of the Twenty-first ward, a Kline district, took out nominating petitions for Councilman Harry Little for register of wills.

As Herd was taking out the papers, the Malone-McGovern "Independents" were holding at the Keystone Club perhaps the most fateful of their meetings. It was possible that the conference would decide whether a complete "Independent" ticket would be placed in the field.

LEADERS ATTEND

At the meeting was Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, James J. Malone, Ralph H. Smith and Councilman Robert Garland. It was reported that Senator W. D. Mansfield, McGovern's probable running mate for commissioner, and W. H. Coleman, aspirant for district attorney, also would attend.

McGovern is reported balking at the inclusion of Max Leslie candidates on the ticket, but any tiff he may have had with Malone apparently is not sufficient to block negotiations on a slate.

The likelihood has been that the Independents would back Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell.

PARLEY CALLED FAILURE

The British press was unanimous today in stating that the conference so far as the larger aims outlined in Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald's opening address were concerned was a failure.

Some editors went what they called a compromise in the degree of some delegates to the conference to give the impression that great things can been accomplished. One editorial asked:

"If so, why do all except Chancellor Bruening say that they are pleased?"

LOS ANGELES, July 24 (AP) — The law officially applied the name of fugitive today to Guy Edward Hudson, whose marriage to Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Evangelist Aimee Semple McPherson, was annulled yesterday on the ground he already had a wife.

Another M'Govern Candidate for Commissioner

T. J. McGovern, a civil engineer, with offices at 315 Brownsville road, today took out nominating petitions for county commissioner on the Republican ticket.

In event Commissioner C. C. McGovern announces his candidacy for the primaries, the presence of the two names on the ticket would tend to confuse voters, observers pointed out. Two Armstrongs appeared on the commissioner ticket four years ago.

3 MORE SEEK JUDGESHIPS

Three additional candidates for judicial positions were announced today. Attorneys N. L. "Skip" Wymard, and J. Boyd Duff, Jr., announced they are seeking Republican nominations for Common Pleas Court, and Robert L. Vann, Negro leader, announced as a candidate for County Court.

Wymard, who resides at 250 South Highland avenue, was a captain in the 314th infantry overseas and a member of the American Olympic Committee to Stockholm in 1921.

"I anticipate no radical changes in the administration of justice in the court if elected. I shall conscientiously perform all of the duties imposed upon me, treating all those who appear before me with the utmost impartiality, regardless of race, creed or color."

Duff in announcing his candidacy said he did so with the earnest purpose of correcting delay in handling court cases. He said:

"Having had occasion to give this matter serious thought and because a method, tested and approved by informed and capable lawyers is available (which does not require additional judges), and because no other candidate has recognized the needs of the present situation nor indicated that he has a practical method of correction, do I seek the office."

LITTLE IN RACE FOR REGISTER

for re-election, despite his Leslie inclinations.

Here's action, following several other developments, makes it appear that Mayor Charles H. Kline may be preparing to put up a complete ticket of his own.

Today, campaign advertising posters and cards were delivered to the office of Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, and they bore the name of Armstrong alone. At the same time, city employes were pushing nomination petitions for Senator James J. Coyne in the Twenty-ninth Ward, and Armstrong's petitions weren't in sight.

CAIN PUZZLE

The taking out of commissioners' nomination petitions for Sheriff Robert S. Cain yesterday, although viewed by many as a Coyne threat to Armstrong to choose no other than Coyne as running mate, or as a smoke-screen in Coyne's dickering with Armstrong, may assume another appearance in the light of these developments.

Some observers today foresaw the possibility of the Kline-Coyne machine backing Garland and P. J. McArdle for council, as a move to disarm the Independents. Kline, they said, would feel safe with his two opponents in council, so long as he had a safe majority.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park had nothing to say today about Smith charges yesterday that there was too close a connection between Park's office and Coyne and Armstrong and that the racketeer element was supporting Park.

Coyne, however, said of Smith's reference to him as "real estate broker, stakeholder and specialist in wet goods":

"It is true I am in the real estate business and as to his reference to stake-holder, it is true that men placed in my hands, large sums of money without asking the protection of the stroke of my pen. I ask Mr. Smith how many men in Pennsylvania would similarly trust him with money or anything else of value."

Starr's Stepfather Asks Reopening of Death Quiz

NEW YORK, July 24 — (INS) — Stanley E. Faithfull, stepfather of Starr Faithfull, whose body was found off Long Beach on June 8, said today he would launch a move for a new investigation of the girl's death.

He said he planned to visit District Attorney Edwards, of Nassau County, and demand that he reopen the case.

Faithfull made public a copy of a document which purported to show a Boston politician had paid him $20,000 in 1927 for "release" on any claims for alleged mistreatment of the girl some years before. He also made public a letter from a Boston lawyer accompanying the $20,000 check. He represented Faithfull at the time.

Faithfull declared a New York handwriting expert claimed at least one of the suicide letters written by Starr was a forgery. The letters in which the girl said she was going to end her life, were written to Dr. G. Jameson Carr, a surgeon on an ocean liner.

Edwards stopped his investigation when the letters were made public by Carr. The district attorney had previously investigated the Boston politician named today by Faithfull and said he had no connection with the girl's death.

OHIO PROSECUTOR ACQUITTED OF BLACKMAILING CHARGE

COURT REFUSES TO REMOVE THOMAS

Mahoning County Official Cleared by Judges ein Political Investigation

International News Service.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 24—Prosecutor Ray L. Thomas, of Mahoning County, today was found not guilty of blackmailing Harry J. Engle, ousted Youngstown traction commissioner, in a decision handed down by Judge H. W. Jewell, of Delaware who presided at the trial by assignment of the state supreme court.

A joint decision refusing to remove Thomas from the office of Mahoning County prosecutor was rendered at the same time by the special tribunal of judges in charge of the probe of the Mahoning County political case.

The blackmail count resulted from a letter Thomas allegedly sent to city council last February, demanding that council oust Engle from his office of traction commissioner because Engle "was using the prosecutor's office to further a gigantic blackmail scheme."

Retrial of Thomas on eight other counts contained in indictments returned by a special grand jury has been postponed until fall when the visiting judges return from their vacations.

Thomas was one of eight persons indicted by the grand jury. Trials of the other seven defendants are scheduled to follow the the trials of the prosecutor.

Disbarment proceedings filed against two Mahoning County common pleas judges and Attorney Andrew M. Henderson, a special counsel for the state in Thomas' blackmail trial, also are expected to remain dormant until fall. The jurists are David G. Jenkins, who presided at the Bethlehem Steel merger trial, and J. H. C. Lyon.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR.

JUSTICE SCORES POLICE

Justice of the Peace Chester A. Wyke, of Bridgeville, was indignant today at what he termed discrimination of police in towing parked cars to city garages.

Wyke said he and his wife attended a downtown movie last night and left their car parked in the 900 block, Liberty avenue, their custom for months. When they left the theater their car was gone.

Wyke said:

"I finally located the car in the Center Garage, 72 Roberts street, after I had hired a taxi to go to the garage. They gave me back the machine on payment of $3.35. The tag placed by police was marked, 'Parking where prohibited.' I don't know whether a 'Coyne for commissioner' sign on my auto had anything to do with it or not. I had been parking there for months and my car was never towed in before."

CONVICT BOMB PERILS GUARDS AT JOILET

Missile Hurled at Officers Searching for Weapons In Cells Fails to Explode

International News Service.

JOLIET, Ill., July 24—A gasoline bomb, first evidence of a threatened riot at Statesville Penitentiary, was hurled at the feet of guards today as they were searching a cellhouse in the prison. The bomb did not explode.

The guards had just begun their search of the cells for weapons when a convict in a cell in the top tier of Cellhouse C tossed the bomb.

Capt. Fred Newkirk, acting deputy warden in charge of the investigation, said the bomb had been constructed for the purpose of throwing it into a fire to make it explode.

About 10 feet from the bomb guards found a brass tube, smelling of gasoline, which Capt. Newkirk declared was being fashioned into a torch when the search halted work on it.

Yells and catcalls greeted the guards as they began their search for smuggled weapons to stave off a threatened outbreak among the prisoners.

Ordered to their cells last night the convicts were stripped of their clothing in a thorough search for weapons.

NEW PAVING JOB PAY HELD UP

City Controller James P. Kerr today held up payment of $19,313.62 to the M. O'Herron Company for the grading, paving and curbing of Campania street, from Lincoln avenue to Gopher street.

2 DRY AGENTS ARRESTED IN RAID

Pittsburghers Held in East As Pennington Accuses Police of 'Beer Mob' Link

SHENANDOAH, Pa., July 24—Two federal prohibition agents from the Pittsburgh headquarters were under arrest here today for their alleged illegal raid on the Home Brewery last night.

A crowd of 200 or more persons surrounded the dry agents after they had been disarmed by Police Lieut. Stanley Dobrowsky, threatening them and hurling sticks and stones.

Two special investigators from the Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware prohibition headquarters at Philadelphia arrived here this morning and announced they would seek arrest of Dobrowsky and any others who assisted in the arrests. They were supported by a statement from Dry Administrator Pennington's office in Philadelphia, which said:

"Only two courses were open to the agents—use their guns on uniformed policemen or submit to arrest.

"The case is positive proof of the alliance between corrupt politicians, local police and the beer mob. We will haul the local police who interfered with this seizure into Federal Court on serious criminal charges."

Dobrowsky said he was summoned to the brewery by neighbors who said three burglars were breaking into the place. There he found three men—two of whom later proved to be Dry Agents Pindro and Bower, of the Pittsburgh office. The third man, Agent Richards, escaped.

The discussion developed from the revelation that Edison has only paid one visit to his laboratory here since June 16 when he returned from his winter home at Fort Meyers, Fla. John B. Miller, his brother-in-law, said:

"Mr. Edison is bothered by the warm weather and is taking things easy."

CRAZED SLAYER OF FIVE HELD UNDER GUARD

Violence Feared Toward Mercer Man Who Shot, Stabbed Eight Persons

MERCER, Pa., July 24—Alarmed lest relatives of the eight victims of a crazed miner-barber at No. 2 mine of the Sharon Coal and Limestone Company would seek vengeance, Mercer County authorities today removed the man from the hospital to the county jail.

Four women and a man were killed when Marko Demofonti, 38, ran amuck in the village, three others were wounded and 25 children left motherless.

BLAMES WINE

From his cot, Demofonti blamed his madness on drink given him by a friend. He said:

"For two or three months I have been suffering from stomach sickness. I drank with a friend and since then have been sick in the head."

He started his attacks shortly after arising yesterday morning. Armed with a shotgun, revolver and knife, he killed his wife, then went next door to the home of his sister, Mrs. Alfonso Pascetti, killing her and stabbing and seriously wounding Flora Bonnani, 14, who was visiting there.

Marching down the village street, composed largely of coal miners employed by the Sharon Coal and Limestone Company, Demofonti killed or fatally wounded three others and injured two.

NEIGHBORS SHOT

A 10-year-old son of Mrs. Pete Cecilman, a neighbor, was hit by a bullet as he played in the yard of his home. As he ran crying into the house, Demofonti fired through the window, fatally wounding Mrs. Cecilman.

His next victims were Mrs. Frank Yakela and Gertane Bevilaqua, village cobbler, who were shot to death as they stood in the doorways of their adjacent homes. Mrs. Mike Bonanni, mother of the girl wounded in the Pascetti home, was stabbed.

Retracing his steps, Demofonti went to the home of Joe Dedie, adjoining his, and set fire to it. Returning to his own home, he grabbed his 9-month-old son and threw him out of a door, slightly injuring the baby.

SHOT IN DUEL

Demofonti's reign of terror was finally ended by George Masters, a storekeeper, who besieged the slayer in his home. In a pistol duel Demofonti was wounded in both legs and surrendered.

Demofonti told police that he feared his relatives wanted to kill him. He said his obsession to kill came upon him when he awoke in the morning.

Demofonti had been employed in the Sharon mine 10 years. His employers said he was known as sober and industrious.

The children made motherless were seven in Demofonti's own family, eight in the family of his sister, Mrs. Pascetti, seven in the Cecilman family and three in the Yakela family.

So the sentence was suspended.

RECTOR DENIED DIVORCE TO APPEAL

Seeks Funds With Which to Fight Case; Puts Blame on Mother-in-Law for Rift

CAMDEN, N. J., July 24.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. Camille Estornelle, of Camden, sought finances today for an appeal from a ruling of William B. Knight, advisory master in chancery, which denied him a divorce and entered a decree [illegible] Mrs. Florence Hann Estornelle, his wife.

The clergyman's suit, based on grounds of desertion, Dr. Knight said, was unjustified. He awarded the plaintiff, however, a decree to Mrs. Estornelle on charges of "unfaithfulness." The master said the finding would remain on file in Chancery Court for three months, and if no appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals was made the decree would be made final.

Dr. Estornelle declared:

"I am a poor man and I do not know where I will obtain sufficient funds to appeal. A great injustice has been done me."

Among the witnesses for Mrs. Estornelle was Miss Anna McKenna, who testified Dr. Estornelle was the father of her 2½-year-old son. The cross bill named other women.

Dr. Estornelle denied Miss McKenna's charge. Miss McKenna fainted when the master's finding was announced.

Dr. Estornelle is 35 years old, his wife 32. The wife has been working in an Ardmore beauty shop since her separation. Dr. Estornelle blamed his difficulties on his mother-in-law.

KIN JOIN SUIT OF DAVIDSON SISTERS

Judge Gray Allows Them To Intervene in Support Of Two $10,000 Claims

Granting of a "leave to intervene" petition by Judge James H. Gray will again bring the Eleanor H. Davidson $3,000,000 estate case into court.

Mrs. Josephine Nute and Mrs. Jane Lantau, sisters of Mrs. Davidson and Lawrence W. Hibbert, a brother, filed the petition yesterday in support of the petition filed by Martha K. and M. Blanche Hibbert, also sisters, in which they each ask for $10,000 compensation for services rendered their sister's estate.

FULL INQUIRY

The court order handed down yesterday provides for full inquiry into the claim for services made by the Misses Hibbert, who first filed the claim and also "such claims as may be presented by other interested parties." The case will probably come up at the next term of court.

In their petition filed June 20 the Hibbert sisters review the litigation which they instituted to protect their sister's estate and which resulted in the disbarment of former Judge Henry G. Wasson and a disbarment action against Attorney George H. Calvert which is still pending before the Supreme Court. Mrs. Davidson had been adjudged a lunatic, Wasson and Calvert were named a committee to handle her estate.

They allege that in a cottage on the grounds of the $187,000 house that Wasson and Calvert built for Mrs. Davidson a chauffeur hired by Calvert was doing a bootlegging business.

The chauffeur also kept 100 chickens on the premises and charged the feed bills for the poultry to the estate, according to the petition.

MADE PROTEST

They protested to Calvert and asked for the chauffeur's discharge but he ignored their protest, the petition states.

There is no mention in the petition of bootlegging the pre-war stock of liquor of Mrs. Davidson erroneously reported in published accounts. Miss Martha K. Hibbert yesterday denied that her sister has ever had any stock of liquor.

The Hibbert sisters' petition states that:

"Their services have contributed greatly to the enhancement of their sister's estate," and they ask the court to decree a reasonable sum, "which would be $10,000 each for their services," and $1,600 for expenses.

The Commonwealth Trust Company, present committee for Mrs. Davidson, through its attorneys Boalwick, Stewart and Reed, filed a demurrer, claiming:

"Inasmuch as the petitioners are beneficiaries of the estate, there is no basis for allowance of their claim."

In a supplemental petition the Hibbert sisters state that:

"They claim their services on the same ground which Thorp, Boalwick, Stewart and Reed claimed their allowance for $100,000 attorneys' fees."

ORDER REVERSED

The Supreme Court reversed Judge James B. Drew's decision allowing the $100,000 fees and granted the firm $50,000 fees, thus saving the estate $50,000, the petition states.

In their petition the sisters state that it was "by their giving all their time and services as well as information they furnished the attorneys that the resignation of Wasson and Calvert was obtained and that they were surcharged with $410,000," which was paid back into the estate.

Their petition concludes with the statement that the two sisters:

"At the time they undertook to attack the former committee they were the only persons to do anything. The committee was squandering the estate, the said lunatic's mother was the next of kin, 80 years old and unable to transact business of any kind. The petitioners were the only ones left to stop the squandering of the estate and they had the committee surcharged with $410,000. Petitioners therefore ask they be paid the amounts claimed because the lunatic (Mrs. Davidson), if sane, would undoubtedly agree to said provision being made for petitioners."

DIES TO SPARE GIRL RESCUER

CHICAGO, July 24.—(INS)—Coast guardsmen today sought the body of Curtis Chelstrom, 23, medical student, drowned when he repulsed rescue efforts of his friend, Ruth Jones, 22, in the fear that she, too, would go down in Lake Michigan.

The two had been schoolmates in college and had gone swimming together yesterday. Several hundred feet out, Chelstrom was seized with cramps, and Miss Jones supported him on a shoulder and struggled toward shore. The water was rough, and it was soon evident to Chelstrom that both would drown if the girl persisted in her life-saving efforts. He gasped:

"Go it alone."

Then he pushed himself from her, sinking almost immediately.

CATHOLIC RITES SUSPENDED

TAMPICO, Mex., July 24.—(AP)—Catholic services were suspended today in the town of Panuco, Vera Cruz, when the priest in charge turned the cathedral over to a committee of laymen in accordance with instructions from the mayor.

The mayor's order was based on the recently enacted state law which limits to 13 the number of priests allowed to perform their offices in Vera Cruz.

Gov. Adalberto Tejeda has advised the church that by Saturday a list of the 13 priests must be submitted to him. Church authorities have refused to comply and have announced that if priests are ejected from the churches they will continue to minister to their parishioners in secret.

Anniversary Marked At Mormon Shrine

PALMYRA, N. Y., July 24.—(AP)—This village, almost within sight of the Hill of Cumorah, the "shrine of Mormonism," was host today to thousands who began a three-day service marking the completion of the first year of the second century since the founding of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints by Joseph Smith.

The Hill of Cumorah is where the faithful believe Smith unearthed the golden plates on which were engraved the tenets of the Mormon faith.

Military Services For Dead Airman

MIDDLETOWN, Pa., July 24.—(INS)—Services were held at the Army air depot here today for Lieut. F. A. Johnson of the 103d Observation Squadron, Pennsylvania National Guard, preceding removal of the flier's body to Washington for burial in Arlington Cemetery.

Johnson was killed with Sergt. Paul W. Dernoeden of the squadron when their plane crashed and burned at the air depot.

Mrs. Soong had been ill for some time. One of her daughters married Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese president, another is the wife of H. H. Kung, minister of industry, and a third is the widow of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, founder of the Chinese Republic.

Pattern 2180

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

For the woman of larger figure, choosing a new frock often means choosing between what is stylish and what is complimentary to her own individual contour. Both style and slenderizing effect are happily combined in this frock. Nothing can be more flattering than vertical lines that run straight from the shoulder to the hipline in a seam, and are continued in inverted pleats in the skirt. And nothing can be smarter than the jacket lines suggested by the seams and the loose belt marking the waist. Pattern 2180 makes up delightfully in percale, dimity, broadcloth, swiss or wash silk.

Obtainable only in sizes 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 38 requires 3¾ yards of 36-inch material. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

176TH REVIEW HELD BEFORE COL. DUNLAP

Second Battalion Takes Howitzer Practice After Storm Sweeps Camp

TOBYHANNA, Pa., July 24.—(AP.)—After storms had cleared, the 2nd Battalion of the 176th Field Artillery of the National Guard proceeded to firing point 8 yesterday for practice with regular service ammunition from 155 millimeter howitzers. In the absence of Maj. James W. Marrinan from camp, Kapt. H. Shriebert of Battery C acted as battalion commander.

Junior officers of the 2nd Battalion were given instruction in firing of sub-caliber guns and under Maj. Walter H. Flick moved to the range. A mounted review of all units of the 176th of Pittsburgh was held last night. Col. W. R. Dunlap was on reviewing officer.

MOUNT GRETNA, Pa., July 24.—(AP.)—The 213th Coast Artillery anti-aircraft of Easton yesterday successfully defended the mythically huge supply of war materials at the National Guard camp from the 103d Observation Squadron planes representing an enemy.

Maj. J. Sidney Owen Philadelphia reporter, the troops of Col. Clarence Smith Allentown, had so successfully camouflaged themselves and their weapons that his men were unable to take photographs which revealed their position. No attempt was made to bomb the concealed anti-aircraft troops.

After a day of defensive maneuvers the 109th and 110th Infantry regiments encamped several miles from Camp Kemp last night. The 109th, of Scranton, made camp at the William Hicks farm and the 110th of Washington at the H... Church. Outposts were established around each regiment.

BRYAN REALTY SALE SOUGHT

MIAMI, Fla., July 24.—(AP.)—A petition for authority to sell real estate holdings of the late William Jennings Bryan to convert remaining assets into cash was filed in Probate Court yesterday by attorneys for W. J. Bryan, Jr., Beverly Hills, Cal., and Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, Miami, executors of the estate.

Judge W. F. Blanton issued a citation to all heirs returnable September 7 to show cause why the petition should not be granted.

W. E. Walsh, attorney who filed the petition, said that while it apparently was the desire of Mr. Bryan that the property be sold there was no authority in the will for his executors to sell and they therefore were unable to transfer the title.

RELIEF SOUGHT BY TAXPAYERS

High and unequal taxation in Allegheny County is today confiscating the property of the average owner, C. C. Hamilton, real estate operator and president of the Taxpayers League of Allegheny County, declared in a statement which he issued in behalf of the league today.

In the statement Hamilton said:

City and county taxes have increased 200 per cent in the past 15 years.

Public utilities pay no city nor county tax on property valued at approximately $200,000,000.

One-third of auto license and gasoline taxes should be returned to the communities from which they were paid to lighten the real estate levy burden.

Chain stores should be compelled to pay $25 for each of three or less stores, $1,000 each for all over three, in order to give the independent merchant an even chance.

A mortgage moratorium of one year should be declared, during which the property owners would be required to pay only taxes and interest. This would decrease the number of sheriff's sales, of which 7,852 were recorded in the county during the past two years.

Hamilton said the league, which he claims now has a membership of more than 20,000, has opened headquarters at 515-516 Union Bank Building and will receive new memberships and direct a campaign to obtain the reforms outlined.

JUDGE M'DADE RUNS AGAIN

HARRISBURG, July 24.—(AP.)—Judge Albert D. MacDade, of Delaware County, today filed nominating petitions with the state elections bureau as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the supreme court. Last year Judge MacDade was defeated for the nomination to the same court by Judge George W. Maxey, of Scranton.

The vacancy on the court was caused by the death early this year of Justice Sylvester B. Sadler, of Carlisle. Shortly before the legislature adjourned Gov. Pinchot named Superior Court Judge James B. Drew, of Pittsburgh, to the vacancy. Drew's appointment received senate confirmation but he has been restrained from the superior court this preventing the filling of that vacancy at the election this year.

ILEANA, ANTON CHEERED BY PEASANTS

100,000 Dance Near Palace As Royalty Gathers in Preparation for Wedding

International News Service

SINAIA, Rumania, July 24.—A broiling sun today failed to lessen the ardor and enthusiasm with which 100,000 Rumanian peasants ushered in the wedding festivities of Princess Ileana, sister of King Carol, and Archduke Anton of Hapsburg, who will be married Sunday.

The peasants attired in their picturesque national costumes danced and paraded outside the palace walls, cheering the bride and bridegroom-to-be without cessation in the sweltering heat.

The three-day royal wedding promises to exhibit brilliance and pomp those of the far off pre-war royal days.

Ileana and Archduke Anton received the gifts and felicitations of innumerable Rumanian clubs and associations and a host of blue-blooded personalities this morning.

Prominent among those throughout the halls of the castle were King Carol, Crown Prince Michael, Prince Nicholas, Dowager Queen Marie, ex-King George and Queen Elizabeth of Greece, ex-Grand Duchess Cyrill of Russia, Prince and Princess Hohenzollern-Sigmaringen. Several members of the Hapsburg family and representatives of many other princely German houses. Leading figures in Rumanian government and military life also were present.

Conspicuous by her absence was Princess Helen, divorced wife of King Carol, who left Rumania last week to take up more or less permanent residence in London, as a climax to her long dispute with the monarch over resumption of their marital relationships.

MONTPELIER, Vt., July 24.—(AP.)—Sinclair Lewis, novelist, deposited the Nobel prize medal in literature awarded him last year, with the Vermont Historical Society yesterday as a permanent loan. The medal will be kept on display in the society's rooms at the State Building here.

Lewis wrote:

"I hope the gift may serve to indicate my affection for this, my adopted state."

The medal was presented, he said, with the understanding that during his lifetime it should become the outright property of the society.

In accepting the loan Ruth Taylor, assistant curator, said:

"The Vermont Historical Society is greatly pleased that you have made it the means of displaying to the public this medal which constitutes signal honor to you and a recognition by the world of the genius of American letters."

The Nobel prize was awarded Lewis in Stockholm last December.

HUMBLE CLERK KING'S GUEST AT PARTY

Mingles With British High Society as Reward for Benefactions to Hospital

LONDON, July 24.—(AP.)—The society columns do not record it, but Sir Arthur Barlow, humble clerk in a hardware store at Derby, was a guest at King George's garden party yesterday.

He got there at considerable sacrifice by his wife, as well as himself, he told the Daily Express.

Despite his obscure social rating, Barlow has raised thousands of pounds over a period of years for the Derby Hospital. He did it by organizing concerts in his spare time. His services were reported to the king, and Mr. and Mrs. Barlow were invited to attend the garden party with England's most eminent society leaders.

The Barlows, however, didn't have enough money to buy suitable clothes and pay their fares. So Mrs. Barlow insisted that her husband go and she stay at home.

Barlow said he was thrilled to meet their majesties and the distinguished guests. He added:

"But I wish my wife could have gone, too. She would have enjoyed it so much. I saw tears in her eyes as my train left Derby."

$7,666 BID MADE ON MAYFLOWER

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(AP.)—The Mayflower for 27 years the official presidential yacht, drew bids of $7,666 and $1,100 when estimates on the old vessel offered for sale by the Navy Department were opened yesterday.

When purchased by the government from the Olney Goelet estate to serve in the Spanish-American War she cost $430,000.

The lower bid submitted by the Borough Metal Company of Brooklyn, New York, was rejected because it did not comply with specifications for bidding. The other offer was from the Boston Iron and Metal Company of Baltimore. This was referred to the office of naval operations for acceptance or rejection.

STATE POLICE CHIEF SPURNS BOMB QUIZ

McKees Rocks Appeal Fails To Bring Detail of Men; Thirteen Suspects Freed

The state police will not investigate the bombing, July 8, of the home of Thomas J. Conley, a leader in the protest against tax increases and the political machine in McKees Rocks.

This became known today when Maj. Lynn Adams, commander of the state police, said he would not detail men on the investigation without the direct request of District Attorney Andrew T. Park or Chief of County Detectives George W. Murren.

Both men indicate that they will not call in the force.

APPEAL MADE

Members of the McKees Rocks Citizens' Committee, appealing at the Greensburg barracks for aid and protection from the state police, were referred, some time ago, to Maj. Adams. A letter to Adams has, as yet brought no reply. In answer to telephoned inquiries, however, he said the matter rested with Park and Murren.

Questioned, Park said:

"It's up to Murren. What he does is right."

Murren said:

"Absolutely not."

And that seems to settle it.

CHARGE RETALIATION

The Citizens' Committee has maintained the bombing of the Conley home was in retaliation for their activities against the political regime of Miles Bryan, under which the borough has gone bankrupt.

Thirteen suspects have been apprehended, but all have been released, and solution of the bombing seems no nearer than when it occurred.

$16,000 MAIL SACK MISSING

PHILADELPHIA, July 24 (AP)—The disappearance of valuable mail between South Jersey towns and the Philadelphia postoffice was under investigation today by postal and police authorities.

One pouch, containing cash and checks mailed by the First National Bank at Westville, near Camden, is among the missing mail. Another sack, said to contain a $16,000 cash and securities, shipment from a Gloucester bank, also was reported missing at its destination.

The search has been conducted secretly for more than a week.

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP)—Some all-around citizen has a chance to make a name for himself as George Washington II.

The District of Columbia Bicentennial Commission announced today the United States was being canvassed to find a man to play the role of the first president in the national pageant to be held here in June as a highlight in observing the two hundredth anniversary of Washington's birth.

ARMED FORCES OF TWO STATES GUARD BRIDGE

Oklahoma Governor Declares Martial Law in Dispute With Texas Over Tolls

DURANT, Okla., July 24—(AP.)—Armed National Guardsmen of Oklahoma were paraded by Gov. William Henry Murray today to show his defiance of forces which would prevent his blockading a toll bridge across the Red River to Texas, just south of this city.

Nearly 300 guardsmen were held in readiness here for an emergency which might arise, while in detachments of 30 they prepared for an unceasing vigil at a narrow strip of highway leading to the Oklahoma entrance to the toll span.

Declaring a Houston (Tex.) Federal Court action by the Red River Bridge Company, owners of the toll bridge, to have the blocked roadway opened would be "an invasion of the rights of the sovereign state of Oklahoma," Gov. Murray proclaimed martial law in the immediately affected area last night. Adjt. Gen. Charles F. Barrett took charge.

The first detachment slept under arms in preparation for an early morning march to the martial law zone in front of the toll bridge, a strip 200 feet wide and 1.7 miles long.

Across the river, at the Texas end of a parallel free bridge ordered opened by executive order last week of Gov. Murray, Texas rangers, under the orders of Gov. Ross S. Sterling, also guarded a blockade. Motorists are forced to detour.

DUDE RANCHERS BATTLE FIRES IN FORESTS

Aid Checking Flames Which Menace Two Tracts in Wyoming; Losses Mount

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 24—(AP)—Flames swept forward today in the Teton national forest and northeastern Wyoming, where they were menacing at least two large ranches, but they had been checked in Yellowstone National Park and the DuBois dude ranch country.

Losses mounted so rapidly forest officials could not give an accurate total, but estimated more than 50,000 acres had been burned over and the damage totaled several hundred thousand dollars.

A crew of about 1,000 composed of dude ranch guests who volunteered, ranch hands and forest rangers, checked two fires that threatened dude ranches in the DuBois area. Included in the party were Junius S. Morgan, Jr., New York; Daniel Roosevelt, nephew of Gov. Roosevelt of New York; Peter Schlesinger of New York; Dr. Charles Bradford of Boston and Marjorie and Melissa Marsten of London, England.

National Guard troops and volunteers had little hope of stopping flames near New Castle in the Black Hills, without the aid of rain, according to a telegram from Col. R. L. Esmay, in charge of the troops, to acting Gov. A. M. Clark. The Diamond Bar and Lissola ranches were threatened.

Seeking $25,000 damages for injuries to Mrs. Blance W. Malden, of Aliquippa in an automobile collision, she and her husband, Reese F. Malden, filed suit in Common Pleas Court against James Henderson, of Imperial. Henderson drove an automobile which struck another in which Mrs. Malden was a passenger on the Broadhead road near Aliquippa, June 14, the suit charged.

HOOVER UNABLE TO BAR OIL

WASHINGTON, July 24 (AP) — Attorney General Mitchell yesterday ruled that under existing laws President Hoover has no authority to place an embargo on oil merely because of domestic overproduction.

The ruling was a result of Hoover referring to the attorney general several hundred telegrams and letters from the West and the Southwest asking the chief executive to invoke such an embargo.

Mitchell said in a lengthy ruling the question for decision was whether unfair methods of competition and unfair acts in the importation of articles in the United States had been disclosed.

In 1930 American tourist expenditures amounted to $811,000,000, as compared to about $171,660,000 spent by foreigners visiting the United States.

You may remember the Peanut Vendor. It had an infectious note that got into your toes, got into your torso. It became epidemic throughout the republic and now a king and a queen had contracted it. News dispatches do not say whether royalty expressed it in its native virulent rumba form but we can assume that at least one member of the royal family caught the thing in its most severe aspect.

Radio [illegible] responsible for the spread. It was the maestros of jazz and [illegible] new rhythms to agitate the [illegible] youth of the land [illegible] upon [illegible] dance floors of Havana, Berlin and Paris [illegible] didn't disappear [illegible] thing sent [illegible] the toes [illegible]

The maestros, the song publishers snatched it up, had English words written to it—gave it the air. It swept the nation as nothing in the way of a tune had swept it since "Yes, We Have No Bananas."

MADRID, July 24 (AP). Outbreak of political violence in Seville and Barcelona resulted in a casualty list of two persons killed and four wounded. Meanwhile the government prepared for possible trouble at Malaga where a general strike is scheduled to start tomorrow.

In Seville a rooftop sniper shot down a civil guard captain of the infantry who was standing on the porch of his barracks. The other fatality was a night watchman who was felled by a stray bullet from a gunfight between a sniper and a civil guard.

TRIAL SPEEDED IN GIRL MURDER

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 24 (AP). Miss E. Garrison, charged with the murder of his former fiancee, Helen Bradshaw, stunned 12 times, may know his fate by August 1.

Superior Judge L. N. Turrentine, in whose court the trial is being held, intimated that night sessions might be ordered in an effort to complete the trial in another week.

The state was expected to complete its case today. The defense plans to call between 20 and 30 witnesses.

C. A. Bradshaw, father of the murdered girl, testified yesterday he did not hear his daughter return home the night of the tragedy, contrary to the defendant's assertion he took the girl to her home and heard her slam the front door.

SAVE 4 ADRIFT IN LAKE

DETROIT, July 24 (AP). Light signals from a passing freighter brought aid from shore last night in time to save four men floating in life belts 10 miles out in Lake St. Clair after heavy seas had swamped their speedboat.

Victor Hansen, 22, of Waterloo, Ia., was unconscious from swallowing water when he was pulled aboard the freighter motorboat Leo Cowell, 24, also of Waterloo, and Arthur N. Swigert, 28, and Fred C. Baldus, 23, both of Highland Park, Mich., showed no ill effects from their narrow escape.

The men had put out from Grindavein in a 26-foot speedboat. They encountered heavy seas which smashed their windshield. They barely had time to don life preservers when their craft went down.

NEW DEATH LAID TO CAPONE GANG

CHICAGO, July 24 (INS). The hand of Scarface Al Capone was seen today with another mysterious slaying in the war between the Capone gang and rival syndicates.

John Balkovatz, 22, an alcohol cooker, was shot down as he opened the door of his home. His .32 caliber revolver was unfired, showing that he did not have a chance to resist.

Police attributed Balkovatz' murder to the rum war which has claimed about 10 victims this month. Attempts have been made by other racketeers to "muscle in" on the Capone territory and police attribute the mysterious slayings to this force.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

Requested

There you were on the crowded street
With little chance for a nod to bow
But seeing you—a cute and gay and sweet—
Struck a chord in my heart somehow
Some faint scent in the magic air
Were its spell for a while had
And I who thought that I'd ceased to care
Thought against of the bliss we'd had.

Little you've changed in the fleeting year
Fair and lovely and laughing eyed
All my blessings upon you dear,
Even though I am cast aside.
Where were you bound in that soft Spring glow—
Who was the lad you were smiling at?
And one more thing that I'd like to know—
Where on God did you buy that hat.

THE DAILY NEWSPAPER, as an institution, is one of the most important industries in the country today. It is so closely interwoven in the lives and habits of the American people that it has become a virtual necessity to the many millions which it serves.

Here is an opportunity to invest in a group of nationally known publishing enterprises that have been consistently profitable for many years. They include some of the strongest and most successful newspaper enterprises under the control of William Randolph Hearst. Vigorous and progressive, they are read and respected because of their adherence to true American ideals.

Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., Class A shares yield a full 7% return with the privilege of participating in extra dividends up to an additional 3% as declared.

Considering the greatly reduced earnings of many companies during the past year it is an excellent indication to note that this company is earning at the rate of three times its 7% dividend requirement on the total authorized issue of class A shares.

As a sound investment these shares should appeal to everyone who is interested in providing future security through an issue yielding a good return with a wide margin of safety.

People I've Met

LESLIE HOWARD An excellent actor and a great favorite in the New York theater. More than this, a polished writer and a thorough gentleman. He is now a motion picture star on the coast.

I don't believe it was more than a year or so ago that Tom Van Dycke, who is now readying his new production, "Interview," was rehearsing "Out of the Blue Sky" in the Booth Theater. "Out of the Blue Sky" was adapted and being directed by Leslie Howard.

A perfect part in the show for a young actor who would be able to sustain the romantic lead. Dixie thought it a fine opportunity for Leslie to display his talents. Perfect. He memorized his lines, studied the role and was ready to step into it at the first reading.

He was a quiet, pleasant actor, never in the young man and his manner. As good a type and fitted to relieve the producers to cue one.

Then he said "that young fellow will never do. You'll have to get somebody else. Tell him he's out of the part."

The producer attempted to argue.

"I think you're wrong, Leslie," he asserted. "He has just what the part calls for. As far as I'm concerned he gave a swell reading."

The director shrugged his shoulders.

"Listen, Tom," he insisted. "I despise this part and it makes me sick to watch it. That young fellow may be a fine stage personality, but he's far from being the actor I want."

He kept on insisting. He's not the type to create love interest and every time anyone with him. You simply have to tell him this and get somebody else immediately.

So the producer took the boy by the hand and went back to the office.

"I'm sorry, my boy, but I'm afraid you don't fit in with our plans. I think you're very good, but you're not quite right for the part. I think you'd do much better if you got another part."

And out Mr. Howard of the chapter and director of the play. Otherwise He's the one who has the final say. And he thinks your part carry any love interest.

I'm really very sorry. But there's nothing more I can do.

The young actor must have been sorely disappointed. But he grinned and shook hands with the producer.

"That's all right," he chirped. I respect Mr. Howard's judgment in such matters because he knows a great deal more than I do. Maybe he's perfectly correct about that love stuff. So long."

Funny game, this theatrical business. Howard went to Hollywood and became the star he is today. But the same young actor that Howard didn't want also went to Hollywood. And he's being featured today just as important as Howard.

The young man's name is Clark Gable. In Norma Shearer's latest picture, "A Free Soul," both Gable and Howard are featured with Miss Shearer.

And so great is the love interest that Gable creates for the star that in the picture Howard has to murder Gable before he can finally win the girl.

BOBBY CONNOLLY A genius among modern dance directors. He staged the dances in the new Follies and his Chanzing of the Guard number has been hailed by the critics as one of the finest pieces of dance direction in the theatrical history.

Connolly is one of the grandest guys I have ever known. I'll tell you a great deal more about him some day, but I have neither the time nor the space at the moment sufficient to relate that he's a genius and that his heart is 100 per cent as big as he is. That's a rare thing in any business. In show business it's a miracle.

At any rate there are two girls in the Follies to whom Ziegfeld has wanted to give notices ever since the show began. He insisted they would have to go, but Connolly turned up with his usual plea.

Please don't do that boss," he asked. They're both good kids and if you let them out they'll be broken-hearted. They need their salaries very badly. Why don't you give them a break?

So the great glorifier kept them in. The show opened in New York and Flo kept standing in the wings of the theater and making down whenever they appeared. But Connolly was right beside him.

You'll have to learn them as now be announced. Those kids have worked locally for you. I know they're not too good but they'll do. And loyalty deserves some reward doesn't it?"

A few days ago Boody started work on Free For All, the new musical show that Schwab and Mandel will bring into New York in the fall. Connolly will stage the dialogue and dances for that attraction.

While he was sitting in the rear of the house the stage manager brought in several girls who were looking for jobs in the new show. Boody almost fell from his chair when among them he saw the two girls whose positions he had saved in the Follies. They evidently didn't know that Connolly was staging this new musical and they expected to rehearse for new jobs while hoping on to the old.

Loyalty! . . .

Cleared in Killing, Wife Held in Cell

CHICAGO, July 24 — AP — Mrs. Hazel Scott, 35, was back in her cell today after being examined as a coroner's jury of clame in the fatal shooting of her husband, Harold M. Scott, Purdue football star. She will be released pouce said after arraignment on a manslaughter charge.

A suspect of suicide while temporarily insane was returned to the tutors after they heard statements in her fa or in Scott's parents Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Scott of Richmond, Ind.

World Wheat Crop Decrease Forecast

WASHINGTON, July 24 — INS — Estimate compiled today by the Bureau of Agriculture Economics indicate the world wheat crop harvest will be 250,000,000 to 300,000,000 bushels less than harvested last year, but larger than the 1929 crop.

The bureau said the most significant changes in the prospective size of crops compared with last year are in the foreign surplus producing countries.

SHOTS TRACED TO U. S. BOAT

DETROIT, July 24 — AP — Wayne County officers investigating the wounding of an excursionist on the Detroit River allegedly by a United States customs border patrolman in a skirmish with liquor runners Tuesday night said last night five bullets had struck the steamer Ste. Claire. One of them hit Arthur Gaske, 23, in the arm.

The bullets which struck the steamer were sleet-jacketed. The investigators said. A fifth jacketed bullet removed from the arm of Gaske was identified as a police ballistics expert as having been fired from the gun of Clarence E. Fish, a border patrolman.

Investigators said only the metal construction of the excursion steamer prevented the wounding of others of the 1,000 members of a church society who were aboard.

Bedouin Foreman Held Inventor Of A. B. C.'s

CHICAGO, July 24 — AP — Some unknown Bedouin mule foreman working for the ancient Egyptians about 1,200 years before Christ was revealed today by Prof. Martin Spreagler of the University of Chicago with inventing the A. B. C.'s.

The mule foreman puzzled by the complex hieroglyphs of his masters sought a simpler way to keep his records and simplified his work by developing a phonemetars alphabet in the form of Prof. Spreagler. He based his theory on his translation of the Sinai inscriptions found in 1904 by Sir Flinders Petrie in Sinai, which is between Egypt and the southern part of Arabia.

His theory would upset that of many scholars who gave credit for the development of the alphabet to the Phoenicians.

to Saguenay River in Old French-Canada
$130.00
Sailings June to September

THE 9-day tour starts from Cleveland, although ships may be boarded at any stopping point, and takes you down the great St. Lawrence River that flows through picturesque, historic French-Canada. First you visit Niagara Falls and then steam across the Lake to Toronto, Queen City of Canada. Leaving Toronto you sail among the jewelled Thousand Islands and shoot in perfect safety the series of eight roaring rapids to Montreal. Here you sightsee for a day with hotel accommodation.

On to Quebec by night, down the best-lighted waterway in the world. Dawn finds you docked beneath the mist wreathed ramparts of this fortress city. You spend a day on the return trip exploring its quaint, winding streets and promenading its famous Dufferin Terrace, which overlooks from on high the beautiful harbour. You visit the celebrated Shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupré. Miraculous cures are reported here and pilgrims journey from the four corners of the earth to worship at this hallowed spot.

Away down the widening reaches of the St. Lawrence to Murray Bay and peaceful Tadoussac. This little village, dreaming beneath its mountain background, is the last port of call before the awe-inspiring sail up the mysterious Saguenay River, guarded by its stupendous capes. A cruise into an old world that lies close at hand. See it before this corner of natural grandeur becomes part of all that is modern. Accommodation, both ship and hotel, is on the most luxurious scale.

Remember, every expense on this enjoyable cruise has been foreseen and included in the figure quoted above, as well as stop-overs at important hotels en route. A courteous escort relieves you of every travel worry.

LANG NEIGHBORS MODIFY PROTEST ON PAVING

Politics Shunned as Chiefs Dine

PARTY LEADERS MAINTAIN DIGNITY

Speeches by Candidates Devoid of Factionalism; Reading Gets Meeting

All promises of a spicy session failed to materialize as politicians kept their dignity at the closing banquet of the eighteenth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Chiefs of Police Association in the William Penn Hotel last night.

With three candidates for county commissioner, numerous state senators and judges, the district attorney, assemblymen and several minor politicians present, all went well at the closing session.

MANY ON PROGRAM

With Judge Frank P. Patterson of Common Pleas Court as toastmaster, District Attorney Andrew T. Park, President Frank R. Phillips, of the Philadelphia Company, James F. Malone, secretary of the Department of Property and Supplies, and the Rev. Father Lucian Ducie, spoke words flattering to policemen.

County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, State Senator James J. Coyne, aspirant to the county commission, and another similar aspirant, State Senator William D. Mansfield, were present, held their peace.

Clocks were presented to retiring President L. J. O'Neil, Finance Chairman Louis H. Leff and the association's newly-elected first active life member, Dan T. McKelvie, of Hazelton.

READING GETS MEET

Stating that public utilities are mobile and brought up to date in their methods more easily than republican forms of government, President Phillips said:

"And, thank God, we don't have to depend for our livelihood upon the votes in our district."

The next meeting of the association will be held, next summer, in Reading, Pa.

SURFACING JOB DEFENDED BY DR. LEWIN

Top Soil Requirements Met at High School Fields, Board Member Declares

Surfacing jobs at Taylor Allderdice High School and Peabody High School have been entirely up to the standards set in the specifications, according to Dr. A. L. Lewin, head of a sub-committee in the Board of Education, which has been investigating the charges of unfair inspection made by the Excavator Contractors Association.

Dr. Lewin said the top soil at Taylor Allderdice athletic field averaged four inches deep.

He said:

"A careful study of the specifications will show that the intent was to have all top soil removed from one part of the property and replaced on another. This was followed to the letter. It was not intended that the contractor should bring in additional top soil from outside."

A depth of 12 inches of top soil was mentioned in the specifications, Dr. Lewin said. This was done to make certain that all the top soil on the property would be retained, he declared.

DENIES CHARGE

The charge that labor employed by the Board of Education was used to complete the work of the sub-contractor was said to be impossible. The only other men on the job, Dr. Lewin said, were the board's inspectors.

A certain amount of clay has been mixed with top soil at various school athletic fields on orders from school board authorities, Dr. Lewin stated. He explained that a certain percentage of clay and sand provides quick drainage.

REED EXPLAINS WILKSBORO PLANS

City Engineer Confers With Residents; Near Agreement on Program

City Engineer Tom M. Reed last night met with Wilksboro avenue property owners to iron out difficulties arising from the proposed street improvement plan.

Following a tour of the street, during which Reed pointed out where the cuts and fills would be made, the property owners said they were more in accord with the plan than they had been previously.

VIEWS CHANGED

Lawrence J. Buck, of 3816 Wilksboro avenue, said:

"My previous understanding was that our houses would be a foot below the new street level. As I now understand it, the homes will be above the street. I did want the street further west than it is now, but I'm satisfied."

According to Reed, another previous objector, H. B. Strassler, 3816 Wilksboro avenue, is now satisfied. He said that all but one of the residents are now content with the plans that he outlined, and that work, according to the specifications, will be started in a short time. He said:

"Our plans are now for a 22-foot street with a four and one-half foot walk on either side. Our original plans specified a 30-foot street with 10 feet walks; however, I want to satisfy the property owners, if they want something different, it's up to them. The hedges are four feet over the line on the east side, and 14 feet on the west side. I'm trying to save these."

CHANGES VARY

He also explained that the changes on the east side would vary from a 4-foot cut to a 3 foot, 8 inch fill, and on the west side from a four and one-half foot cut to a one foot eight inch fill. The property will be graded so as not to spoil any terraces or shrubbery.

Difficulties about sewers and water lines and old Allegheny street lines were also straightened out. Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, whose home is on the west side of the street, did not attend the meeting.

PAINTERS HURT IN FALL

Two men were reported in serious condition in South Side Hospital with injuries suffered in the collapse of a scaffold in South Fifteenth street, late yesterday.

The victims, Joseph Janoski, 33, of 1425 Napoleon street, Beechview, and John Fassinger, 34, of 634 Brownsville avenue, were painting the home of M. Welny, at 98 South Fifteenth street, when the scaffold collapsed, hurtling them about 30 feet to the sidewalk. Neighbors ran to their aid and took them to the hospital in an automobile.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 24.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Two trips I would like to have been on—one, stored away in the tail of Post and Gatty's ship; the other, with Bernard Shaw and Lady Astor in Russia (maybe stored away in Bernard's beard). The laughs there will be on that trip, for Lady Astor can hand 'em out about as fast as old Apple Cart can.

Will Rogers

Well, it's fine if they have fixed so Germany will pull through. There is one debt they ought to wipe out entirely, for it had no reason ever existing, and that's for the "Armies of Occupation." That was just like sitting over the grave of a dead man for a year to see if he was coming to life and then charging his family the price of the sitting. Boys brought home enough fine fat German girls to pay for that trip.

Yours, WILL.

Full-Size Model of End Of New Institute Made To Avoid Mistake

Mellon Institute's new temple of science will rise at Fifth and Bellefield avenues, a perfect building. There will be no chance for errors, because the contractors are now building a full-scale wood and plaster model of one end of the structure.

This is the second time in the annals of American architecture that a full-size model of a building has been assembled. The first was the Lincoln Memorial at Washington.

Secluded from the eyes of curious motorists, the ivorylike model rises 80 feet in the air in the middle of a cornfield just off the Fox Chapel road, about one mile from the Sharpsburg road.

For 18 weeks the carpenters and plasterers have been changing angles, cornices and pillars. The model at present consists of one complete corner of the proposed institute building, with two gigantic columns rearing themselves the full eight stories of the building. Workmen expect to complete it in three weeks, they said.

It was learned that the original measurements of the building have been changed since the model was begun. The solid ends have been increased in length, and the height of the cornice has been doubled.

Janssen & Cocken are the architects, and the Mellon-Stuart Company the contractors.

CLARK PLACES WHARF BLAME

The city Department of Supplies was blamed today for the failure of police officers to collect fees for three days this month at the Monongahela parking wharf, by Public Safety Director James M. Clark.

Complaint has been made to Council by the Pittsburgh Building Owners and Managers' Association that figures for some days were so ridiculously low that action should be taken, Clark said.

"We placed a requisition for parking tags into the Supplies Department about June 16. When July 11 came around we had no tags. The delay was the cause of the whole thing.

"Because the officers had no tags they permitted motorists to park free."

'Bugs' Sees Some Dire Signs of New Prosperity

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Prosperity is on its way back and it's a question if it's worse than depression.

The railroads are asking higher passenger rates for habitual commuters, silk workers are threatening to go on a strike and the landlord is snapping his fingers with old-time authority.

Even conservatism recovered a few points with Coolidge's latest fishing picture. Cal posed with rod and reel in the middle of a corn field. He was 15 feet from the water, but he was wearing rubber boots.

He was elected because he wore both suspenders and a belt. This newest photograph indicates that Cal is a candidate again.

Nothing seems to affect the distinguished Vermonter very much and his 1932 slogan should be: Keep callous with Cal.

Mr. Hoover and Secretary Stimson are arguing over the authorship of the Hoover debt plan. That's because it looks like a success now. But why not wait until they see how it turns out?

Nobody is trying to grab credit for those 10 cruisers we just built. When those boats were launched they took to water like a red nose.

Gardner. They were married December 28, 1922, and she charged he deserted her March 26, 1926. She testified:

"He just packed his clothes and left, giving no reason. He said he was through, didn't want to have anything more to do with me."

The other 25 words consisted of eight answers of "yes" or "no," and residence. She answered 18 questions.

Her mother, Mrs. Carrie Barker, with whom she lives, was a corroborating witness, answering six questions "yes" or "no," an individual record for brevity on the witness stand, in a divorce case, i

WHY TAKE PILLS?

There's no need to drug yourself with laxatives when constipation can be overcome by eating a delicious cereal. Mr. F. C. Aminsen, Kennyhole, Washington, writes:

"I suffered with chronic constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every night, but since I got your Kellogg's All-Bran it works fine. I would not be without it. It was so double cost of taking pills every night. Now it is no different. Kellogg's All-Bran works so naturally and is pleasant to take."

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's All-Bran daily. Relief is guaranteed. It is the natural, safe way.

Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Kellogg's All-Bran also furnishes iron for the blood. In the red and green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Bread Experts Disagree on Best Kind

Dr. Copeland declares that the flour from which white bread comes is more digestible than either whole wheat or graham flour, and points out that children thrive more on food that is pleasing and tempting.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
Former Health Commissioner of New York City, United States Senator from New York

It is believed that the Egyptians were the first to use leaven in the making of bread. From Egypt the custom traveled to Greece and later to Rome. By reason of the various Roman campaigns, this discovery was widely spread and eventually became known throughout the world.

The ancients employed as foods a great variety of grains. Wheat, barley, rye, millet, spelt, rice and other grains were extensively used. Nowadays there is not so great a variety of grains in common use, but there is great controversy over which type of bread is most useful to the human family.

Within recent years bread made from whole wheat, graham and similar flours have become exceedingly popular. There has been much exploitation of the alleged superiority of these breads because of their high protein, vitamin and mineral content. In addition, they have been popular because of their laxative properties.

I try believe the use of such breads has become too much of a fad. The good old-fashioned bread has been neglected. These unimportant, new-fangled ideas have taken an unjustified hold upon our people.

It is generally agreed by scientists that whole wheat and graham flours are not as easily digested as the finer flours. This is a matter of importance to the person of delicate digestion. It is vitally important to children. Many parents, solicitous of the children's welfare, insist upon their eating whole wheat bread. As a rule children dislike this bread. Certainly they do not digest it as easily as bread made from finer flours.

It is true that whole wheat contains valuable elements that are not found in white flour. However, it should be remembered that no one food is a perfect food. Other articles must be added to the diet and they will supply what the white flour lacks.

Little Johnny will thrive on good old fashioned white bread and jam. In addition, he should be supplied with the necessary quantities of "protective" foods. Among these we include milk, eggs, fresh fruits and green vegetables.

Dear parent, remember that health is more surely guaranteed by eating foods that are pleasing and tempting. You must use your own good sense. There is really no reason to neglect the customary food items. There is no need of partaking of less tempting foods on the theory that they are more nourishing. Our grandmothers may not have known about vitamins, but they knew that white bread was good for their children.

Girls Should Plan for Future and Forego Present 'Show'—Fay King

CAN YOU IMAGINE WHAT THEY OFFERED ME FOR MY BIG CAR, KNOWING I NEEDED THE MONEY.

SHE IS LIKELY TO BE GYPED OUT OF HER BONDS AND JEWELRY BY SOME SLICK YOUNG SHARK!
THAT'S RIGHT BABY, TRUST ME!
FAY KING

By FAY KING.

How seldom the pretty girls who become the sweeties of indulgent "sugar candies" make any sensible provision for the future when they will fall out of favor.

Too often we hear of them resorting to the despicable game of blackmail, which incurs insult and humiliation.

They find, alas! they can get little of the value of jewels when forced to pawn them, and that the money is soon gone trying to keep up a brave show.

How much wiser if, during the affair, they had asked for and received a small home somewhere, with no great overhead of upkeep, and under no circumstances parted with it.

But alas! they demand too much foolishness for present show and too little that is sensible for future security.

Engagement Announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to be married soon. We are expecting to send our engagement or wedding announcements to our friends and relatives. Which is correct? When are they to be sent?

ELINOR.

Between these two there is no choice, as far as correctness goes, for engagement announcements, the formal kind I mean, are decidedly incorrect.

Wedding announcements are in excellent taste and are sent to those who have not been invited to the wedding. They are formal, engraved, and are ordered some time before the wedding, so that they may be all ready to be sent out directly after the ceremony has been performed.

Write Separate Notes

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When one receives gifts from two friends living together, is it correct to write one letter of thanks to both as "Misses Jane Doe and Helen Morton," or should two letters be written? The gifts came in one package.

READER.

You should write separate notes of thanks, even if the gifts are sent by both and come in one package.

Difficult Question

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me if it is good form for a girl to wear a sleeveless dress at an informal affair given at a hotel or should she wear a dress with sleeves? Should she wear a hat also?

UNDECIDED.

It is difficult, indeed impossible, to answer this question without knowing if the affair is to be in the afternoon or evening, and so forth. But as a general rule, sleeveless dresses are for formal evening affairs. And with a formal evening dress you would not wear a hat.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

No Mystery to Modern Medicine

Have you ever noticed the simple form in which a prescription is written? The next time you visit a doctor and he gives you a prescription please read it.

Dr. Copeland

I am sure you will have no difficulty in doing so. The modern prescription is quite different from the ones written years ago. At that time most prescriptions were written like [illegible] and could not be read to the average patient. They might [illegible] even [illegible].

The secrets and mystery of medicine have disappeared. The physician has learned there are few things he should hide from the patient. On this account most prescriptions are now written in English.

In spite of this change there is still a reluctance on the part of the public to regard the doctor as a man of science. The attitude of the layman has been passed down from the [illegible]. Witchcraft, superstition and "magic" were mixed with medicine for many centuries. It is hard to forget [illegible].

The Arabians believed that a mad dog's head when burned to ashes and made into powder cured rabies. [illegible] belief was [illegible].

It was [illegible] that the more bitter a medicine tasted the better it was for the patient. This [illegible] [illegible] drawn to [illegible]. Even [illegible] there [illegible] the [illegible]. Many [illegible] the most [illegible] [illegible] in a patient of the [illegible] [illegible] not cure. There is no doubt that many of the [illegible] [illegible] customs of the past stirred up considerable commotion. But today nobody believes that the smell or taste of medicine has a thing to do with its value.

It is interesting to note that baldness has been the subject of controversy for centuries. In the days of King Tut the priests were richly rewarded for their cures for baldness. They mixed in equal parts portions of the crocodile, snake rat, hippopotamus and horse and applied the horrible mixture to the scalp. How ridiculous this remedy seems, but its value is no more far-fetched than some of the cures for baldness advertised today.

There is an endless list of cures and remedies. But there is no excuse for using them. There is no mystery about modern medicine. The medical press is informed as to new remedies as fast as they are developed and proved to have real value. The future no doubt will reveal new drugs and that ultimately there will be complete disappearance of the old and unfounded beliefs.

Household Hints

Your bottle of perfume will stand [illegible] better if you will remove the ornamental stopper and replace with a tightly fitted cork for the journey.

If you will thread a needle before cutting the cotton from the spool, and make the knot at the freshly cut end, the thread will not curl up and knot when sewing.

If you want the flower pots to be waterproof rub the bottoms [illegible] melted paraffine. This will [illegible] the pores of the pots and prevent any moisture from staining the woodwork on which the pots may rest.

SHEER WOOL GREATLY IN DEMAND FOR SUMMER AND EARLY AUTUMN

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 24.—Even the summer sun isn't able to make us shed our woollies. For it is wool frocks and suits everywhere here, except on the very hottest days, and even then, it is not an infrequent sight to see a frock of very fine, sheer, wool worn by women who are wise enough to know that a sheer, almost porous weave means cool comfort. Delightful indeed, are the frocks and suits of wool now on view at the smartest houses. The tailoring is superb and the details are sufficiently dressy to take away any severe tailored look that might be associated with the wool frock. At the same time there is nothing fussy about these clothes, for a fussy wool frock would be a sartorial outrage, wouldn't it? Such frocks and suits will be all the thing for early autumn wear, and no sooner or later the woollies will get you, even if you do watch out.

* * *

STRETCHED TODAY are two smart models that should convert the most rigid unbeliever to the charms of the wool frock, when it is perfectly done. The frock is by Vionnet and is in fine black wool. The caped sleeveless jacket is bloused into a cloth belt which fastens with a wide patent leather tab in front. This jacket is removed to reveal a tailored frock with surplice closing beneath a wide taffeta scarf gaily plaided in black, white, green and yellow. Ideal for early autumn wear.

* * *

CHANEL ALSO does things with wool, as will be seen from a glance at this nice little suit. It is in navy blue woolen and the smart jacket is fitted at the waistline by means of groups of darts at strategic intervals. Hand-done eyelet work trims the scalloped deep coat collar, edge and cuffs. There is a sleeveless gilet of white handkerchief linen embroidered at the neckline. Then there is the jet of white lingerie flowers done in eyelet embroidery. Narrow folds, stitched and outstanding like fins are placed at intervals all around the narrow skirt.

WILLIAM WATSON CLARK, who threw one of the fastest pitched balls in baseball, pitching pitches of the year and his record [illegible] as SIX wins has not been surpassed by [illegible] the big show. In eight straight games [illegible] a glorious [illegible] won seven, a low percentage stopped by Charley Root in Chicago, 1 to 0. Clark [illegible] a shade over 10 [illegible] to two games against the Pirates, he held the champions to 16 runs.

You get the impression from Clark's great record that he has been pitching against all opposing batters, as well as his enemy, Casey Bill himself says that this is not the case. He observes that just as every batter needs some pitcher particularly [illegible] almost every Reggie needs some batter to get [illegible] to start. And the latter applies to him more forcibly than to the average pitcher, he says, because there are [illegible] players in the National League who [illegible] a headache almost every time they step up to the plate.

"There are many dangerous hitters in this league," Clark said "but I find these four more troublesome than all the rest combined. They're no use to me. If I drive Berger back in the box with a close pitch he comes right up again and nicks me for a home run. I simply can't get Stephenson out, and Traynor and Hafey are just as bad. The ambition of my baseball life is to get on the same club some day with Berger, Stephenson, Traynor and Hafey. Then I'll not have to pitch against them.

The surprising Browns cannot be accused of playing any favorites in the dust that has had an effect upon the American League pennant race. They have just given the A's a big lift by taking the Senators for three in a row, but last month they exerted an influence in the opposite direction by knocking off the A's four times straight and giving Washington a new chance in the fight. The latest doings have almost settled the flag race, however. The A's, who have stretched their winning streak to 10 games, are now out in front by 10 full ball games and the last glimpse of catching them is just about gone.

BOBBY JONES' Lessons in Golf

By Robt. Jones, Jr.

American Amateur Champion and Former U. S. and British Open and British Amateur titleholder

It seems to me that it would help a great many struggling golfers if they would only realize that the game of golf can never be reduced or elevated to the realm of the exact sciences. It has been said many times that the ability to play golf well is an art, and I suppose it comes as near to being that as anything else.

Bobby Jones

The average golfer who is ambitious to play well makes a great mistake when he attempts to build up a foolproof swing synthetically by adding one motion at a time trying to achieve a complete set of motions which he can reproduce accurately time after time. After all the whole thing should be a matter of feel. What he should strive for most of all is a sense of touch which is delicate and reliable enough so that he can know the position and location of the club at all times during the swing.

Victor East is one instructor of golf who lays great stress upon this matter of feel. Victor tells me that when he takes charge of a new pupil his first concern is to develop this sense of touch. His first act is to place a club in his pupil's hands and then has him close his eyes, turn the club around and around in his hands until with his eyes closed and relying solely upon the feel of the club, he is able to tell when the face is true in its proper hitting position. This is a very simple thing for an expert golfer, with his highly developed sense of touch, to do, but it is a matter of great difficulty for the less experienced player. This fact alone, it seems to me, indicates its importance.

UNWISE TO CHANGE GRIP

There can be no doubt that a first-class golfer must make little corrections even up to the instant of impact. This same thing that we are talking about, that is the impossibility of repeating exactly the same set of motions time after time, means that for consistently good results little errors of position must be corrected by the time the club meets the ball. These corrections must be made instantaneously. There is no time for conscious control, so that there is only the sense of touch or feel or whatever we may call it, and the instantaneous reaction of the muscles that can accomplish this.

Naturally, the feel of the club is communicated through the hands and any alterations of the grip it would seem to me, must alter this feel. I therefore think it is unwise to change the grip from time to time during the course of a round as many people do. If there is some glaring defect then, of course, a change should be made, but decidedly there should be no attempt to control tendencies to hook or slice by changing the hands about. I am quite certain that I have not altered my grip in the least particular in the past 15 years except for putting. When I find myself inclined to either hook or slice I look somewhere else for a remedy, for I know that my chances of working out of the trouble are much better if I maintain the connecting link between my body and my club the same.

FINGER GRIP BEST

There are some of the reasons why I think it is impossible to prescribe for any person the exact position which his hands should occupy on the club. By this I mean that it is unwise to tell a man, for instance, that his left hand should be in such a position that as he looks down upon it three knuckles would be visible. Some hands are wide, some are narrow, some are fat, some are thin and while I might grip a club so that three knuckles would be visible, John Smith might hold the same club across his fingers and palm in exactly the same way, and yet be able to see only two knuckles. There are certain features of the grip which are important. I think among these is holding the club mainly in the fingers. Certainly another is that the hands should not be opposed but should be working together, but within certain limits the most important thing is that the grip should be comfortable and natural. In this as in all other things pertaining to golf, the instructor ought to realize and make his pupil appreciate that, while there are certain fundamentals which ought to be observed, still there is considerable latitude allowed for individual requirements and preferences.

MEINE FACES ROBINS TODAY

their work cut out for them if they expect to take the measure of the Oaklanders in the fourth game of the series. To date the Ensmen have copped two battles.

It would be quite difficult to select any standout actor in the extraordinary performance of yesterday. Each and every one of the nine players who frolicked for the Pirates made one or more hits, Paul Waner being the only Pittsburgher to collect but one safety. Brother Lloyd led the procession with four, while Grossloss and Thevenow each had two.

George Grantham made the welkin ring with a homer to left-center. Grossloss and Grace were thrown out at the plate as they tried to turn right-center triples into four-sackers. The kid second-sacker had the hit-and-run on with P. Waner in the eighth when he rifled a liner into the right-center hole, which all but won him his first big league homer.

Manager Ehs doubtless was trying to get a four-sacker for the native son when he sent him plateward with nobody out. Howdy was out on a close margin, the relayed ball being handled almost perfectly.

BRAME FANES UP

Ervin Brame worked the entire game for the Pirates. Ervs mates amassed such a big lead for Brame in five rounds the tall pitcher eased up in the remaining innings, the Robins making a total of 17 hits in the batting spree.

Vance was nicked for a couple of runs in the first round. Gilbert's failure to nail Grosskloss's grounder, starting Ol' Dazmarine off in the wrong direction. The Pittsburgh defenses faltered in the second and the Robins scored three to take the lead.

The home boys deadlocked in the third on Howdy's two-out single and they put the ball game on the ice in the fourth when they scored five runs. From that point to the finish the contest was a carefree affair, with hits falling in profusion. Vance left the slab in the fourth, Thurston Moore and Day following him to the mound.

Tennis Exhibition Carded Sunday

Special series of exhibition racquet contests has been arranged for the Walter Stone court Ingomar Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Among the well-known local racqueters scheduled to compete are the famed Dix Dave and John O'Loughlin and their younger brother Billy, ace of the crack P. A. A. tennis squad. Jack Lauler and Paul Sullivan, likewise of the Red and Gray outfit. Andy Smeaton, brilliant Duquesne University court star and captain of the past two Duke net squads, and Miriam Sullivan, Winged Head feminine flash and recent winner of the Honus Wagner cup, symbolic of the women's singles championship of Western Pennsylvania. The feature of the occasion will be a singles match between John and Dave O'Loughlin.

President's Cup Finale on Tap

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 24.—Final matches for the president's golf cup at the Washington County Golf and Country Club were staged yesterday and continue today with W. G. Stewart and Gus Deitz playing in the first division and D. H. Donaldson meeting P. G. Ayres in the second division. The third division winner is D. R. Campbell, who beat J. T. McNair, 4 and 3.

REGATTA OPENS TODAY

PHILADELPHIA, July 24 (INS).—Leading oarsmen of America and Canada will compete in the two-day regatta, under the auspices of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen and the Schuylkill Navy, which opens on the Schuylkill River course this afternoon. The feature event will be the senior eights event for the Stotesbury Cup, which has been staged each year since the event was started in 1900.

ALIQUIPPA NINE COPS

MEINE FACES BAT BATTALINO EASY WINNER

Three of the recognized world boxing champions and a former champion were in action in bouts last night. Battling Battalino, featherweight ruler, faced Freddie Miller, southpaw challenger of Cincinnati, with the title at stake at Cincinnati. Midget Wolgast, flyweight champion, defeated Joey Eulo at Paterson, N. J., on overweight stipulation, saved Young Jack Thompson's welterweight laurels in a bout with Lou Brouillard, Boston southpaw, at Boston, the latter winning handily, while Louis (Kid) Kaplan, former featherweight champion, defeated Tommy Jarrett in a 10-round bout at North Adams, Mass.

EASY FOR BATTALINO

CINCINNATI, July 24.—(AP).—The featherweight crown remained today on the brow of Bat Battalino of Hartford, Conn., by virtue of his decisive 10-round victory here last night over Freddie Miller, Cincinnati challenger.

Battalino knocked Miller to the floor twice for counts of nine and the second time down the challenger was saved from a knockout only by the bell.

Miller got off to a bad start when he took a hard right to the chin in the opening round. Battalino had him bleeding freely in the second. The challenger sparred desperately to win the third, but after that it was Battalino's fight all the way to the finish.

A hard right to the body sent Miller to the floor in the eighth and he barely got up before the count of 10. Then he arose only to be dropped again by a right to the chin. He was down at the bell.

Battalino staggered Miller repeatedly in the ninth and sent him through the ropes in the tenth with a right to the head, but the challenger came back at a count of two. He was hanging on at the final bell.

The champion weighed 125 pounds, a quarter-pound more than the challenger. About 12,000 persons saw the fight.

COAST REFS SUSPENDED

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—(AP).—Seven Bowlia referees were under suspension today by order of Dr. Harry Martin, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, who said they apparently are either incompetent or hate bad enough.

Included in the list was Benny Whitman, third man in the ring at the Tommy Herman-Alfredo Gaona welterweight fight here last Tuesday night. Sport writers gave Gaona, a Mexico City bull fighter, the decision over the Chicagoan and the greater part of a gallery of 8,000 fans bombarded the ring with cushions and papers when a draw was announced.

Others suspended by Dr. Martin are Bob White, John McDonald, Steve Myland, Clarion Fye, Frankie Doland and Charles Beregon.

"I acted in the case of the suspended men because of many protests which have reached my office," said Dr. Martin. "A rest will not do them any harm. Neither their honesty nor integrity is questioned in my decision."

TACTFUL GUY WINS

Sullivan, Blue Execute a Triple Play

BOSTON, July 24.—A triple play featured the 13-4 victory of the Boston Red Sox over the Chicago White Sox here yesterday.

With the bases full, Bill Sullivan, new third baseman of the Chicago club, caught a liner from Earl Webb's bat, touched third to retire Wasdell, who had stepped off the bag, and threw to Blue at first before Rothrock could return there.

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

Willie Davies, Charleroi veteran, and Jimmy Thomas, young Negro bantamweight of the Hill, now are even, with one victory apiece over each other, as a result of their 10-round windup battle in the Hickey Park Arena, Millvale, last night.

Davies received the unanimous award of the judges and the referee, whereas two months ago in the same ring the judges disagreed and the referee, Red Robinson, who also officiated last night, voted for Thomas. There was some argument about that verdict, but there was none last night.

WILLIE FIGHTS UPHILL

The return melee was a fairly close one, however, with Davies coming from behind and stepping out in the last three rounds to establish a clear margin of victory. Thomas got off to a lead on his harder hitting in the first two rounds, during which he countered solidly to the body as Davies forced the fighting. Willie ripped to one knee in the opening round. Davies began to feint in the third round and with Thomas refusing to take the offensive maneuvered about and outboxed Jimmy.

The fourth was even, and Thomas rallied to win the fifth after being hit with two good rights to the jaw at the start. Willie went down off balance as Thomas swung a right around his shoulder midway in the round.

With the fight half over Davies began to mix more freely and he was outslugging in the sixth and seventh, but thereafter Thomas fared badly and Davies romped off with the last three rounds in such easy fashion as to leave himself unwinded.

Davies weighed 115½, nominally two pounds less than Thomas at 1 p. m. The gate was surprisingly small.

RUDY, NEAR KAYO, WINS

Young Rudy, of Charleroi (144½), put up a game exhibition to flash uphill and win the decision in the eight-round semi-final after being floored for eight and punched dizzy with right hands in the first round and beaten in the second and third by Ray Lyle, Akron blonde (148½). Lyle tired after his good start and Rudy punished him from pillar to post in the last five sessions.

Andy Andracci, of the East End (129½), outfought U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington (131½), in the second bout and Young Bordell, of Springdale (130½), was the winner over Al Farone, of the West End, (120½), in the six-round opener.

Jack Henderson alternated with Red Robinson as referee. The judges were L. K. Mehlmer and Fireside Lux.

A. A. courts today. Mathieson, who will not be eligible to the boys' competition next year, baffled Solow with a powerful service and brilliant ground strokes.

RELIANCE PLAYS MARTIN NINE

By TOM BIRKS

The big sandlot game this evening is the Reliance Life-Martin tilt scheduled for Garfield Park. They battled to a 2-2 tie last Friday and Reliance must win today in the first half race and play the Homestead Aces.

The Martins battled the Aces to a tie last evening, but it was in a second half contest. Gormley will oppose Imhoff on the mound. The game will be called at 6:30.

Followers of the City League may attend two interesting games. At Pleasant Valley Field Johnny Dunsky will make another effort to bring his North Siders back into the limelight by handing Book a setback.

J. L. Thomas is carded against the Homestead Grays.

The Civics from the North Side with Art Rooney will be the attraction at the Homewood playgrounds.

In the Steel City loop two big games will be played. The East End Cardinals, first half champion, will make the trip to Leslie Park to resume hostilities with St. Elizabeth's nine.

Two new clubs go into action. The Oliver Cubs of the North Side will travel to Hunter Street grounds, Wilkinsburg, to meet the Penn Club in another Steel City clash.

Dormont's nine came through to swamp the J. L. Thomas club, 14-1. Book bumped the North Side Bucks, 8-3, and Homewood battled 10 innings before a tie with the North Side Civics was declared in City League contests last evening.

The Martins and Homestead Aces tied 2-all, and Reliance tripped St. Joachim's, 9-4, in West Penn loop tilts. The Reicks tripped B. & O., 5-4, in the C. & I. circuit and Ingram won over the Methodists, 10-0, in the Crafton Church League.

In important independent tilts the Homestead Grays whipped Verona, 8-2, the Crawfords beat the Detroit Clowns, 12-0. Whitaker and Bankville tied, 4-4, and the East End Cards won from Trenton, 3-1.

MRS. CAMPBELL GOLF LEADER

Mrs. Frank E. Campbell, of Stanton Heights, West Penn women's champion, paced the early finishers in the one-day journey of the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania at the Pittsburgh Field Club today.

Mrs. Campbell with an 82 led Mrs. S. F. Wadsworth by one stroke in the low net race. They tied at 87 for low gross honors.

Mrs. J. W. Kinnear, of the Country Club, and Mrs. W. J. McCready, of Edgewood, shared the second division lead with net 85 each. The scores:

Wiener at Work On 'Revelations Of Commissioner'

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 24 (INS).—Frank Wiener, former chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission, is engaged in the task of writing his memoirs as a boxing commissioner.

Frank Wiener

For six years Wiener was a member of Pennsylvania's governing board of boxing and wrestling. For most of these six years he was chairman, serving with Harry T. Farrell, of Nanticoke, and Harry J. Boyle, of Pittsburgh. A few weeks ago he and Boyle were dropped by Gov. Gifford Pinchot. Farrell was renamed to the board and suggested as chairman by the governor. Dr. William B. McClelland, of Pittsburgh, was named to the post in Boyle's place, while Wiener's place has not yet been filled although Robert T. Paul, prominent Lafayette College alumnus, is regarded as almost a certainty for the position.

Speaking of his long tenure in office, Wiener revealed he has been working for the past two months on "Revelations of a Boxing Commissioner." He indicated that his story will be lengthy and sensational. Eighty pages are now complete, he said.

"Do you know promoters have been forced to guarantee fighters the decisions to get them to fight in Pennsylvania?" he asked. "Well, they have been, even when they knew they couldn't influence the decision. They did it in order to obtain certain boxers."

YOUNG FIRPO REINSTATED

PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—(AP).—Joseph Bracale, of Pennsgrove, N. J., who boxes under the name of Young Firpo, was reinstated by the State Athletic Commission today after a suspension of two and a half months. Firpo was suspended on charges of unsatisfactory services in a bout with Harry Blitman in Philadelphia. Eddie Burns and Jack Blackburn, seconds, also were reinstated.

Sharkey received $63,628 for his share of the receipts. Walker received $42,418. The gross receipts were $233,536 and the net $212,095. The attendance was 30,588.

PUBLIC PARKS EVENT DRAWS ENTRY OF 180

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

One hundred eighty racqueters will join battle in the second annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph public parks tennis championships when inaugural guns are fired on the courts of Schenley, Highland, Frick, Olympia, West and Riverview parks Monday.

The total attained as final entries were counted late yesterday, not only tops by a handsome margin the 1930 mark of 164 combatants but surpasses all local records for number enrolled in senior singles competition, glowing response to the rallying call to fare forth in quest of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph challenge cups and posts as Steel City representatives in the national public parks conclave at Detroit the week of Monday, August 17.

DRAW IS MADE

Immediately upon closing of the official lists members of the parks tournament committee passed into protracted session last evening and, in the course of seance completed the arduous tasks of compiling seeded groups and working out draws for all six parks. Statistically speaking, it was found that 181 names were filed for the municipal event—164 masculine contenders and 17 feminine hopefuls. One male ace was eliminated because of known affiliation with a local net club, such being a bar to participation in parks circular contesting.

Thirty-three newcomers comprised the last-minute throng to break in under the wire in yesterday's mail. Nine of these enhanced the Schenley host to 47, the Monongahela avenue array thus nosing out Frick by two players, in spite of the eleventh-hour spurt. Frick, however, boasted more men than did Schenley, 44 of the stronger set being enlisted in the Forbes and Braddock gallicks to 41 for the Squirrel Hill ins.

HIGHLAND LEADS

Highland with five fair stars led the women's division, while the Stanton Avenue encloisures line-up of exactly two dozen men landed third place on the numerical rating for the East End sector.

CRISIS FACED BY RAILS IN RATE PLEA

Carriers Hard Hit as Securities Take Flight; Steel Output Gains

NEW YORK, July 24.—The railroads have completed their statement of the case as to why they need a 15 per cent freight rate increase.

In view of the critical financial condition of many of the carriers, the Interstate Commerce Commission should give sympathetic attention to the plea, particularly since the railroad executives, in conformity with President Hoover's request at the White House conference in November, 1929, have been progressive enough to seek to straighten out their finances without further penalizing their employes.

Mr Rukeyser

GOOD SERVICE NEEDED

Meantime the country needs excellent transportation service and no constructive purpose will be served in driving the carriers into bankruptcy.

Among alert individuals and some institutional investors there has in recent months been something of a flight of capital from railroad securities.

If the credit of the railroads is to be thoroughly rehabilitated far more than a moderate increase in freight rates is necessary. What is primarily needed is a new orientation on the part of the railroad executives themselves.

Good railroadship also includes eliminating numerous unprofitable activities and in general better co-ordination of various agencies of transportation.

STEEL SHOWS GAIN

Operations of the United States Steel Corporation as last week are slightly above the bottom reached a fortnight ago. With this company operating around 33 per cent of capacity, one gets a measure of the extent of the prevailing depression. The subnormal character of the construction industry is the main deterrent to business revival.

General Motors announces that through the depression increasing numbers of investors now numbering 285,615 have acquired its shares. Some of the other corporations report similar results. Evidently big speculators have been selling out to small investors. Studies of floating supply of stocks by the New York Stock Exchange indicate that when speculators swap stocks with investors the latter over the long run show the better judgment.

Copper Industry Would Benefit by Further Curtailment

The copper industry has been a disturbing factor for some time. Low prices for the metal and the weak statistical position as affected by the output in the past two months have been disappointing to those who have held the copper shares during the sharp reaction in the past two months. It is pointed out that a big acreage would come from further curtailment in production. Many say that the new low price for the red metal would encourage steps to curtail the output and thus strengthen the situation.

Little liquidation has developed in the market in recent sessions. Outsiders with long positions have not been disposing of their holdings because they have been encouraged by the action of the market in recent dull sessions. A reaction probably will not attract public selling unless stop orders are uncovered. A number are protecting their accounts with stops now.

Interests close to Otis Elevator insist that the company did well in the first half of this year with earnings of $1.53 a share on the 2,000,000 shares outstanding. This was eight cents a share more than is required to pay the dividend of $1.25 a share for the period. In the corresponding period six months a year ago the company reported $1.49 a share. Comment still is heard to the effect that the company will benefit later from the campaign to bring old equipment in buildings up to date. This should result in good replacement business if successful.

Two developments which seem to be in the course of materialization may tend to aid the price of silver according to views expressed by government officials. The case of credit assistance to India by Great Britain will bring a stoppage to the sale of silver by the Indian government made necessary by demands for sterling exchange in that country. The intentions of Germany to coin $250,000,000 in silver reichsmarks calls for the use of approximately 80,000,000 fine ounces of silver. Latest report of the German Reichsbank shows that only 334,000 ounces of silver are available for this purpose.

Declaring that the process of deflation is now being carried to extremes just as the inflation which followed the world wide easy money policy of 1927 was carried beyond all reasonable bounds, James R. Bancroft, head of the American Institute of Finance has written the Interstate Commerce Commission urging that body to act favorably on the railroads' petition for higher freight rates. Mr. Bancroft maintains that the capitalistic system was closer to actual collapse one week ago than at any other time in modern economic history, and contends that a freight rate increase initiating a change in the persistent trend toward lower prices everywhere and in everything would be one of the greatest services possible in the current economic crisis. A copy of his communication has also been sent to President Hoover. Whether his remarks may have influenced the moving up of time for hearing opposition in the matter from August 31 to August 10 is of course not actually evident.

The speculative fraternity was more than a little surprised by the action of Chile Copper board in ordering the regular dividend of 37½ cents. The company, like most others, had reduced its rate of payment several times from the high of two years ago, and last year, while conditions were not the best, they were somewhat more favorable in the industry than has been the case thus far in 1931. The company reported net equal to $1.87 a share for 1930, compared with $4.94 a share in 1929. The Anaconda Copper Company, through ownership of virtually all of the 4,415,583 shares outstanding, controls Chile and is the chief beneficiary of the disbursement. The parent company will receive practically all of the $1,655,812 which the dividend involves.

Aluminum Orders Placed for Fall

NEW YORK, July 24.—Volume orders for both aluminum and enameled sheet metal kitchen utensils were placed in the New York market this week by buyers filling requirements for early fall sales events. The activity this week, together with the orders expected next week, sales agents said, will bring the volume of sales for the month ahead of that in July, 1930. In the enameled ware field, where prices averaged 2 per cent under last years levels, sales agents said they expected to do a better dollar volume than they did last July.

Road Fails to Earn Fixed Interest

CHICAGO, July 24.—Estimates based on latest available figures indicate that during the first six months of this year the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, failed by more than $3,500,000, to earn fixed interest charges for the period which amounted to roughly $6,800,000 exclusive of adjustment bond interest. In the corresponding period of 1930 earnings of the road on the same basis lacked only $600,000 of covering fixed charges.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 24 (Stocks) listed on the curb were somewhat heavy today, but once more the volume of trading was so small that fluctuations carried little significance.

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP).—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Stocks Heavy — Local Trading Dull

STOCK MARKET SHOWS SOME HEAVINESS

Expected Cut in Steel Dividend Helps Weight List; Offerings Small

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP.)—Wall street gave more attention to domestic affairs today, after being preoccupied for some time with the European crisis.

The first result was the crystallizing of opinion as to what action will be taken on U. S. Steel's dividend next week. A reduction of the $7 annual rate is now widely expected, probably to a $5 or possibly a $4 rate.

The stock market naturally developed some heaviness as result of this view, but the possibility of such a development had been largely discounted, and stock was not offered for sale in any volume. In fact, the market remained extremely stagnant. Losses of 2 points in U. S. Steel and American Can were partially regained after the first few minutes of trading. A few issues advanced moderately, but most of the prominent issues moved very narrowly.

Earnings statements now appearing in large numbers continue, in the aggregate, somewhat better than expected, although it is well known that the best statements usually appear first.

The leading steel companies' quarterly earnings are not expected to contain pleasant surprises, however, in most quarters it is regarded as doubtful whether U. S. Steel or Bethlehem will show any earnings from operations applicable to the common stock.

U. S. Steel has maintained its $7 dividend rate through the depression without impairment to date, but there is now considerable doubt as to whether the directors, noted for their conservatism, will feel justified in making further inroads into surplus, despite the company's large reserves. The question of wage scales is being discussed in financial circles, in connection with Steel's dividend. Although President Farrell has been a firm advocate of maintaining unimpaired wage scales, some of the smaller producers have not done so, and conditions are highly competitive in this industry.

Wall Street still recognizes that the European situation remains menacing. The further loss of $20,000,000 gold by the Bank of England today, on top of yesterday's loss of $25,000,000, is regarded as unfortunate. The higher discount rate has thus far failed to accomplish its purpose. Sterling has recovered only partially, and France continues to take London gold, although New York bankers are willing to forego the profits from such operations.

SEES BOTTOM OF WHEAT SLUMP

Grain Expert, Bearish for Two Years, Says Prospects Favor Advance in Prices

W. O. Forker, grain expert and manager of the commodity trading department of A. E. Masten & Co., has turned bullish on the wheat market after two years of consistent advice to his clients to "sell" on all advances. Mr. Forker's change of attitude is based on several factors, part, at least, of which is the reduced prospects for the smaller spring wheat crop in many years for the United States and Canada. He casts the smallest Canadian crop for a long time probably by a little more than one-third of Canada's 1928 yield. In addition an acreage reduction of 25 per cent in the Argentine and Australia will exert important influence on the market.

RUSSIA UNKNOWN QUANTITY

Russia is a possible depressing influence but actually she is an unknown quantity from the wheat standpoint although importing countries are not anxious about supplies while the Farm Board's 250,000,000 bushels hang over their heads. Mr. Forker adds:

"Nevertheless, we think that for the next year the least element of risk is on the buying side of wheat on all recessions.

"Our winter wheat harvest has been completed under most favorable conditions, giving us one of the largest crops and of the finest quality ever harvested, and while the primary receipts at terminal points in the Southwest have been record-breaking in many instances, there has been a noticeable lack of hedging pressure in proportion to receipts.

MILLS BIG BUYERS

"This is partially accounted for by the fact that all mills were practically bare of wheat at the beginning of the crop movement and all flour handlers had reduced stocks to a minimum as they did not want any surplus stock on hand made from Farm Board-priced wheat. Millers have been enormous buyers of wheat, which has been hedged by flour sales instead of in the future grain markets. One baking company was reported as having contracted for 800,000 barrels of flour, such purchases have prevented a more serious decline in wheat prices during the early movement."

World Wheat Crop Estimated Lower

WASHINGTON, July 24—The present world wheat crop will be 250,000,000 to 300,000,000 bushels less than harvested in the past season, according to the Department of Agriculture.

Gillette-United Suit Settled Out of Court

NEW YORK, July 24.—The legal difference between Gillette Safety Razor Company and United Cigar Stores Company has been settled out of court.

The $10,000,000 suit by Gillette Safety Razor Company against the United Cigar Stores Company, filed by United against Gillette, has been settled by payment by United Cigars to Gillette of $1,500,000 cash. The payment terminates all past differences between the two companies and they are resuming business relations for the future on a friendly basis.

GETS LARGEST DIESEL ORDER

CINCINNATI, July 24.—General Machinery Corporation has contracted with the Ingersoll-Rand Company to build five Diesel engines, the largest single unit of which will be of 5,000 horsepower, it was announced today by Lester Leland, president of the Ingersoll-Rand Company.

The contract, a part of the industrial section of Lunkenheimer Company, Cincinnati, a unit of approximately $5,000,000 G. A. Renshaw, president, stated the contract is the largest of its kind ever placed. The engines will develop a total of 35,000 horse power and will be the largest Diesel engine plant in the world.

General Machinery Corporation has acquired through purchase by cash and stock the business of the Putnam Machine Tool Company, subsidiary of Manning, Maxwell and Moore.

Mexican Eagle Oil Loses Large Suit

MEXICO CITY, July 24.—The Mexican Supreme Court has rendered a decision against the Mexican Eagle Oil Company, defendant with Sinclair Interests, and later upholding the legality of the claim presented by the Compania Petrolera Comercial, an independent local company, demanding 20,000,000 Mexican gold pesos alleged to represent the value of oil taken out of the land located at Amatlan, State of Vera Cruz, by the Mexican Eagle Oil Company during the last 25 years.

Wheat Purchase Report Is Denied

CHICAGO, July 24.—George S. Milnor, president of the Grain Stabilization Corporation, denied that the corporation was negotiating with a group of New York grain dealers for the purchase of its entire holdings of around 250,000,000 bushels of wheat.

General Electric Meeting Postponed

NEW YORK, July 24.—Due to the absence of several directors from New York City there will be no July meeting of the board of the General Electric Company, which is scheduled normally for today.

Coal Production Sinks to New Low Levels

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

BITUMINOUS COAL PRODUCTION continues to sink to new low levels, reflecting the inactive condition of most consuming industries. In spite of widespread labor disturbances, the market for coal shows little sign of strengthening to any material extent.

A larger number of mines are in operation in the Pittsburgh district than a month ago. This is tending to bring some of the business back to this district which was lost when the strike was at its height here.

The extent of the slump in bituminous coal mining activity is indicated by the graph at the side of this column which compares the output of the present year with that of 1930. In preparing the chart the United States Department of Commerce has taken the average production for the years from 1928 to 1930 as representative of the index number 100.

The chart indicates the summer slump which normally takes place at this time of year and shows the extent to which current output has fallen below last year. It must be recalled 1930 output was materially smaller than that of 1929.

Captive Mines Suffer

IN THE PRESENT COAL labor troubles, along with those of the past, the captive mines have suffered from conditions affecting the commercial mines although they have had no part in creating the conditions troubling the coal industry.

There are two types of coal producers. The first of these includes the regular commercial mines which are producing coal for sale. The second class includes the captive mines, most of which are owned by steel companies and public utility organizations.

The troubles of the commercial mines are due to competition, freight rates and wages paid by competing fields. The captive mines produce coal solely for the use of the organizations controlling them. They are not concerned with market prices. As a general rule freight rates are not an important factor influencing their operations.

Pay Higher Wages

MOST CAPTIVE MINES pay wages equalling the union scales or higher. Under normal industrial conditions they give their employes more hours of work each week than the commercial mines. As a result of these conditions, their workers escape many of the hardships experienced by miners in commercial operations.

In spite of this, however, the captive mines are hampered by labor agitation during strikes just as are the commercial mines. This is a holdover from the days when a single miners' union controlled operations in both types of properties.

Should Be Considered Separately

AS A GENERAL RULE discussions of the coal industry put both types of producers in the same class. In view of the radically different conditions affecting the captive and commercial mines, their labor and operating problems should be considered from entirely separate standpoints.

Throughout the entire unfortunate history of the coal trade, the captive mines have been compelled to pay for the mistakes of the commercial producers. The controlling companies have been put to the inconvenience and expense of shutdowns due to labor troubles in all the major strikes although most of the disputes arose from competitive conditions in the industry and had no bearing on the production of coal by organizations using their entire output in their own plants.

PROVINCES PLAN WHEAT AGENCY

OTTAWA, July 24.—Premier R. B. Bennett has suggested to the premiers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta that the three prairie provinces get together and establish a trading corporation to handle this year's wheat crop. A copy of his letters to the premiers was tabled in the House of Commons. He wrote:

"If this arrangement is satisfactory, the federal government will undertake to make the necessary financial arrangements to insure the proper functioning of the corporation."

WINNIPEG, Man., July 24.—An agreement on the handling and marketing of the West's 1931 wheat crop appeared near yesterday as representatives of the prairie governments and the wheat pool continued in conference for the third day.

Establishment of inter-provincial trading corporation with financial assistance from the Dominion government, is expected to result. The corporation would take care of the selling of the crop which pool elevators would continue to handle, the members having the option of selling on open market basis or on the voluntary plan.

Kitty Denies Fake Charges At Divorce Trial

CHAPTER XXV

I thought Thad was going to reach out and hold me—make me let him finish his reproaches, but he evidently changed his mind, for as I reached my chair at the table he bowed to us and departed.

"I wonder what Thad was doing here," Forrest said. "I wonder if he has some girl with him? He ought to lay low until after his divorce hearing."

"He didn't say. I suppose he has to get about a little. He can't make a hermit of himself," I answered.

Evidently Forrest didn't see enough of the way Thad glared, or catch any of his bitterly accusing words, to be curious, for we departed chatting about something else.

Fanny Dutton evidently decided that she could catch more flies with sugar than with vinegar, for she was all smiles to me by this time. Perhaps what I said to her in the rest room gave her a jolt, or perhaps she was dissembling and plotting some way to get square with me.

I had to leave before Forrest and Fanny went, as I had to be at work at 10 the next morning. As I was leaving Forrest shook hands and patted my shoulder rather tenderly.

"My dear," he said, "you and Fanny will be great friends after this."

"Great is no word for it," I said, rather sarrastically.

"I am sure we shall, Katie dear," Fanny crooed.

It was two days later when I got a telephone call from Thad.

"Katie," he said, "I want—"

I cut him off at once.

HEARING STARTED

"Not a word, Thad. I positively won't discuss it," I cried.

"But look here," he said excitedly, "I want—"

"Your female Judas is not talking," I interrupted sharply, and hung up.

Twice again he called up and Viola told him she was sorry but I would not come to the telephone.

"That," I said, "is that."

Viola chuckled.

The time passed rapidly and Thad's secret divorce hearing was due in a few days.

He had written me a letter, but I didn't answer it or telephone him at his club, as he requested.

Arline Parson's private detective came to see me, as she said he would.

"You unnerstan'," he said, "all you do is listen to what I say. Then you get on th' stand an' swear I told th' truth—you ain't so dumb but what you can do that are you?"

"You'd be surprised how smart I am," I said, laughing at him.

Synopsis

Because Katherine Mason believes in playing around and having a gay time she finds herself deeply involved in troubles. She jilts Peter Thompson because he is poor. She expects to marry rich Thad Parsons but he marries Arline Sargent who is named in a divorce scandal within six months. Katherine is getting fond of Forrest Malvern, a rich man of 40, who had been sweet on her old friend, Dolly Hawkins, who disappeared long ago. Thad is going to divorce Arline. Katherine tells Thad she will never marry him. Thad's wife offers her $50,000 to help her in the divorce case. Thad hears of it and calls her a female Judas.

Now Go On

Meet me here tomorrow at 10, he said, giving me a card. Don't be silly. Give me the address where this hearing is to be and I'll meet you there and follow you in."

All right by me, and don't forget, you just swear all I say is gospel truth, get me."

"You'd be surprised how I have got you," I answered him.

"I ain't kickin', but most girls is dumb in court matters," he grumbled.

I was on hand for the hearing. It was held before a judge or referee or something like that. I'm not up on those things, but they called him judge and "your honor."

WITNESSES CALLED

Thad sat beside his lawyer. Near them sat two of the three witnesses who had secured the evidence against Curt Lawlor and Arline for Mrs. Lawlor. There was also a girl in black with a heavy black veil.

I was mightily interested in her.

I sat over behind Arline and her two lawyers. The detective was there and three or four people who, as I learned later, were character witnesses. It was plain that Arline intended to fight Thad tooth and nail. If he won she got nothing. If she could turn the tables prevent him from getting a decree, and then get one herself, she could get big money out of him.

For quite a while Thad didn't look toward me, but finally he did. I lifted my chin as though to defy him.

He scowled like a ham tragedian, and Arline turned around to me and slipped me a tiny wink.

Evidently she was highly entertained by all of this.

Since Thad was seeking the divorce he had to put his evidence first. It seemed quite simple. The minutes from the Lawlor divorce case were read.

The two detectives Susie Lawlor had used with such good results testified as to Arline and Curt Lawlor. Sanders, Thad's lawyer, used a lot of legal phrases, but from what I could make of it he rested his case there. He contended that all this proved sufficient grounds for Thad's divorce.

Haben, the tricky little lawyer Arline had secured, promptly started his defense. First he declared that the Lawlor case had been a frame-up, a matter of collusion. Mrs. Parsons, he said, merely consented to pretend to give Mrs. Lawlor grounds for divorce as a favor to Lawlor, who had long been her esteemed friend.

When Haben was told curtly, to produce evidence as to such collusion, he branched off again. He was certainly a glib chap.

He maintained, and without mincing words that Thad had broken his bride's heart. That the very first week of their return from the South and not a month married, Thad has neglected his bride and gone back to a former mistress.

FALSE TESTIMONY

That made my cheeks burn.

I hadn't expected anything quite like that and yet I should have expected it if I had given the thing serious thought.

Thad occasionally looked steadily at me and scowled.

Arline was all in black. And the way she tried to look heartbroken and forlorn, and especially her efforts at appearing innocent and shocked, gave me an even bigger kick. At times I wanted to grin.

Only the seriousness of the situation in which I had voluntarily placed myself kept me from giggling now and then.

Arline's lawyer seemed as sure and cocksy about it as if Thad had already been refused a decree.

Finally this private detective was put on the stand and that was where I got a good grip on myself. He was certainly going to spring one sizzling yarn involving Thad and myself.

But as I said to Viola, "$50,000 is a lot of money."

The private detective went into details as to what Arline said, that she suspected her husband and a girl named Mason.

At this Thad turned and scowled at me.

The detective said that he spent a few days "getting a line on the Mason girl."

He gave the name of the Miers Creations as the place where I worked and then Haben, the little lawyer, asked him what he had learned about the Mason girl.

He said plenty, including a statement that I was just a little gold digger and bait for sugar daddies.

Arline tried to work up a little quiet sobbing and I was so flushed and mad that I could have shaken her.

KITTY MAKES DENIAL

Then this detective told, in great detail, how he had started out with Mrs. Parsons on this certain night and finally located "the Mason girl in a Harlem dance hall and speakeasy with Mr. Parsons." He even named the place.

I was made to stand up, and the detective promptly identified me as the one who was with Thad.

He went into detail as to trailing us down to my apartment. He said that I occupied the apartment alone.

He explained that it was then 1 o'clock when "Miss Mason" took Mr. Parsons up into her apartment."

An hour later, he testified, he forced the door and, with Mrs. Parsons, entered and found us there.

His description of what he found was certainly a sizzling one.

Arline was called when Thad's lawyer refused to cross-examine the detective. She verified all the detective had said and identified me.

I was called next.

I gave my name, occupation and address.

"Now, Miss Mason, remember you are under oath," Lawyer Haben said, "and you know the nature of an oath—you know what perjury is, don't you?"

"Yes, yes, sir," I said, trying to look meek and frightened.

"Tell His Honor, then, whether or not all that the detective had testified to is true."

I looked straight at the judge.

"It is all a lie!" I said, loudly and clearly.

"What?" the judge asked, sharply, as Haben leaped forward and Arline gave an audible gasp.

"It is all a lie, Your Honor," I repeated.

DAILY SHORT STORY

Dodo

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

Maid Quits Job After Being Accused of Theft

Mattie Hobart was all excitement, and poor Mattie had very little in her drab life to be excited about.

She was going to New York to live!

New York was a thousand miles away from Stratton Falls, and more people lived in almost any New York apartment house than ever lived in Stratton Falls, or ever would live there.

"Pudge" Mason was not at all excited over the going of Mattie Hobart, but he was downright sad about it. Pudge, whose name was William, but got the nickname because of his saucy pug nose, was much in love with Mattie.

Mattie was a poor girl, very poor, and all alone in the world, now. But then, so was Pudge poor. A helper in a garage doesn't make a fortune in any place, especially in a hamlet like Stratton Falls.

When Mattie's mother died Lawyer Ames looked about for relatives of Mattie. He discovered, through a few rare letters, that a Mrs. Flora Arno, in New York, might be called a relative, if the word "distant" were emphasized.

Mrs. Arno, it seemed, was a widow. Her husband had a sister out West. This sister was Mattie's mother.

When Arno died, leaving considerable money, he had said to his wife, "See that Hannah is cared for." Mrs. Arno promised.

But money was money, so Mrs. Arno sent cards every Christmas and a box of cast-off clothing.

The lawyer wrote to Mrs. Arno. She felt no pangs of regret to learn that her husband's sister had died in want, and she had no motives of charity when she decided to take Mattie.

NOT BEAUTIFUL

"A girl of 19 from the country will be strong," she told Jimmy Rivers, one of her elderly and financially sound admirers who belonged to the great class of men whose wives do not understand them.

"Sure," he said, and he was thinking that if this country girl proved to be pretty it would be all the nicer for him.

"I can give her a home and be sure of having a servant who will stay put, one I can trust," Flora Arno explained.

So that was why Mattie Hobart was to go to New York!

Mattie was no raving beauty. She was somewhat freckled, rather overly plump, and with irregular features. She looked to be rather stolid rather than clever. However, Mattie had been through high school and was a great reader. She was a bright girl and probably knew more about New York from reading than many New Yorkers know.

She and Pudge Mason had a rather tearful session of it.

"But Pudge, dear, all I can do here is to work out as some hired girl for some farmer, and that awful," she argued.

"But you'll find some man in New York and forget me," Pudge almost wailed.

Mattie shook her head.

"Never. You save what you can, I'll save what I can, and in a few years I'll come back home and we'll get along nicely."

"I'll save, Mattie—and I'll work hard—we just never will be happy if we don't have each other."

Mattie went to New York. She was not bewildered, nor overly amazed. Aerial photographs of Manhattan had given her a good idea of skyscrapers. She even knew how to avoid the gyp taxis, and was taken with her two old suitcases to the apartment of Flora Arno.

PEDIGREED DOG

Mrs. Arno greeted Mattie pleasantly enough, showed her the dark maid's room, explained about the kitchen and then took her over the seven rooms of the apartment to show how it must be cleaned.

A pop-eyed, wheezy little King Charles spaniel lay sleeping on a satin cushion.

"Oh, yes, Mattie, this is my darling Dodo."

"Dodo?"

"Yes, she's pedigreed, she's a blue-ribbon winner. I would rather have something happen to me than to Dodo. You'll love taking her out in the park twice a day for her exercise. She mustn't have anything to eat except malted milk and minced chicken, the white meat, and no bones—bones would kill her."

"Some Dodo," Mattie said, with a laugh.

"I'm very particular about her, you may use the vacuum cleaner now, don't disturb Dodo. I'm going out to tea, some vegetables and chops will come, get dinner for two at seven."

"Yes, ma'am," Mattie said, a trifle awed.

"And at 3 o'clock put the silk blanket on Dodo and take her out in the park for 30 minutes' walk, keep walking."

"All right," Mattie said.

Mrs. Flora Arno went out to meet her gentleman friend whose wife didn't understand him.

Seven rooms of heavy oriental rugs and overstuffed furniture to clean—hard work. Several cases of bric-a-brac to dust. Dodo's malted milk to fix, running to the telephone and the dumb waiter and the door—and 3 o'clock to take Dodo out. Then dinner to get.

Mrs. Arno came in giggling from too many bathtub-gin Martinis. Her Jimmy was with her.

Mattie served the dinner well enough, and Mrs. Arno apologized to Jimmy.

"She has no maid's costume. I'll get one. I'm sure she will be grateful to me for giving her this beautiful home," she said.

"You are a charitable girl, Flo," Jimmy said, thickly, "an' charitable to me, huh?"

"Hush up, no need to let her think things," Flo hissed.

Before the evening was over Mattie was thinking things all right, and was considerably shocked.

It was drudgery and nagging and more drudgery for Mattie. She wrote cheerfully to Pudge, but lied about it. No need to worry him.

TO GET SALARY

Flora Arno was no better than she should be, and Mattie soon found it out. She had a number of gentlemen friends whose wives did not seem to understand them.

After a month, Mattie asked for some money.

"The idea!" Mrs. Arno said. "Well, I suppose you need a little for trinkets. I shall pay you, hereafter, four dollars a week."

"But Mrs. Arno, girls get that per day in New York."

"Don't be stupid, they spend it all for outside rooms. I am doing an act of charity, taking you in to save you from the poor house, and giving you a beautiful home. I shall give you four dollars a week."

For more than a year Mattie slaved. She was timid about striking out, and she was frightened by Mrs. Arno's threats, for she told Mattie that she had full control of her until she was 21.

Then there was Dodo. If he grunted Mrs. Arno swore Mattie had neglected him or fed him something wrong.

One night Mrs. Arno had one of her gay parties and there was much drinking, much telling of stories that made Mattie's face burn. They all went, finally, except Jimmy. Mrs. Arno sent Mattie to her room then.

Hearing screams of laughter a little later, Mattie crept out and listened and peeked.

Mrs. Arno and Jimmy were rather unconventional as to dress. Mrs. Arno was admiring a massive ruby, a gorgeous thing set in a ring.

"The wife would raise hell, sweetie," Jimmy said, "if she knew I was giving this to you—it used to be hers."

"Mine now, you darling!"

They clinched.

Mattie went to bed, disgusted.

Another year of slavery and no prospects, and Pudge was getting anxious.

Then Mrs. Arno lost the big ruby. It was right on her dresser. No one had called that night. Dodo slept on his cushion beside the bed.

Mrs. Arno accused Mattie. Mattie wept. Detectives came. One of them said, "Your dog might have swallowed the ring."

Mrs. Arno protested. He named instances. An X-ray was made of Dodo and there was the ring! Also hunks of meat! Dodo must have stolen some meat!

QUITS AS MAID

"Now!" Mattie said, speaking sharply for the first time, "I am going to leave you. To be accused of stealing is the limit."

Why. Why don't go, I was excited, I'll even apologize," Mrs. Arno cried, for she could never get another Mattie, at $4 a week.

But Mattie quit her. She went calmly saying that she already had a position in another family on the next street.

Then Mattie went to St. Louis and there awaited Pudge Mason.

They were married there and promptly journeyed on to Oregon where Mattie bought a small farm that would prove to be a paying proposition.

"I only saved twelve thousand, you must have saved a lot," Pudge said.

"I saved plenty, she was awfully generous, dear."

The ring was recovered from Dodo, but an expert told Mrs. Arno that it was a terribly cheap imitation, not worth 10 cents!

Mrs. Arno won't speak to her friend Jimmy now.

And a certain noted jeweler has a beautiful ruby in stock. He bought it from a man who might or might not pick up what is known as "hot" gems, meaning stolen gems.

The man said that a poorly dressed freckle-faced girl sold it to him for four thousand. He got eight for it. It was worth, although the jeweler didn't tell him, three times that.

Mattie and Pudge are marketing Oregon apples. Mattie has one special brand of apples, red as a ruby. She calls them the "Dodo Brand."

The Campaign Opens

Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith Gives the Voters Something to Think About.

The local Republican machine has not yet announced its slate. Some of the candidates have not yet formally announced their candidacies. The campaign may nevertheless be considered as opened. The address delivered before the women's division of the East End Independent Voters' League yesterday by Deputy Attorney General Ralph H. Smith was a political address as hot and pointed as if the campaign were at a critical juncture.

Smith presented the issues as he saw them. He gave his estimate of some of the candidates for county commissioner and district attorney, the most important offices to be filled. There was much for the voters to think about in his remarks.

Particularly noteworthy was what he said about District Attorney Andrew T. Park, a candidate for another term. Smith was on familiar ground in talking of the district attorney's office, having formerly been assistant district attorney for Allegheny County and also assistant United States district attorney.

He said truthfully that while Park might boast that he had indicted the Mayor, he showed no enthusiasm for the grand jury investigation of the Department of Supplies scandal until he had been goaded into it by the newspapers, the Citizens' Committee and the League of Women Voters.

Another thought-compelling remark in Smith's attack on Park was the assertion that racketeers are supporting him. Why shouldn't they? Park's administration has not been noted for prosecution of racketeers. Racketeering has thrived during his tenure of the office. It has indeed virtually been licensed. He has rarely interfered with the system under which Mayor Kline's police court magistrates discharge or lightly fine bootleggers, professional gamblers and other operators of illegal resorts instead of holding them for the grand jury as the law requires. The really big racketeers of course have not even been arrested.

A New Coal Conference

With Greater Number of Operators Invited the Chances for Success Seem Brighter.

The Hoover administration thinks of calling another conference to discuss the ills of the coal industry. Letters have been sent to 150 bituminous operators, asking them what they think of the plan. Chances for a successful parley seem brighter than they were a few weeks ago, when a handful of the larger producers were summoned to Washington.

These large operators said at that time they saw nothing to gain from a conference. Some went so far as to declare the coal industry was no worse off than other industries.

It is hard to understand why they should have opposed a conference. Perhaps they hoped that if present conditions continue their weak competitors will be ruined and they themselves left in unchallenged possession of the coal trade. Maybe they feared a conference might bring pressure upon them to resume contractual relations with the United Mine Workers.

To say the coal industry is no worse off than other industries is foolish. Everyone knows that the coal industry has been in desperate shape for years, while the dullness in other lines is a mere passing phase of the business cycle.

The coal industry is suffering from a chronic functional disorder. The very fact that many can see no remedy for the trouble makes it all the more desirable that there shall be a conference.

A Treasury Watchdog

Building Owners and Managers Association Is Doing Good Service in Scanning City Finances.

The name "watchdog of the treasury" which has been applied to various auditors and controllers who have kept careful surveillance over the public finances might well be applied to the Building Owners and Managers Association of Pittsburgh.

The association has been rendering excellent service to the taxpayers by calling attention to leaks and wastefulness in the city treasury.

Its latest achievement in this field is the discovery that parking fees were not turned in from the Exposition parking wharf on several days recently. While the receipts from this source are said to amount on normal days to as much as $50, the association alleges that on July 10 no receipts were reported, on July 11 only $10.10 was reported, on July 13 no report was made, on July 14 the amount reported was $20.70, and the next day it was $5.20.

The association asserts these figures are "ridiculously low and so obviously wrong" as to demand an investigation by council.

When the Building Owners and Managers Association protested against the increase in the city tax rate two years ago it declared municipal expenses could be reduced and revenues increased.

It has been engaged since then in proving its assertion. The report on parking receipts looks like another demonstration of the truth of what the association said about incompetent management of the city's affairs.

Learn How to Vote

Good Citizens Will Familiarize Themselves With the Operation of Voting Machines.

The Bureau of Elections announces that voting machines will be placed on exhibition in every city ward, borough and township of Allegheny County for a week. Competent attendants will be on hand to show how the machines are operated, and in addition pamphlets published by the county commissioners will be distributed, containing instructions for the use of the devices.

It is to be hoped that there will be a large attendance at these demonstrations. Everyone should familiarize himself with the voting machine, so that he may be able to vote quickly and intelligently in the forthcoming elections.

Voting machines have been adopted to prevent fraud and to facilitate the accurate compilation of the returns. Crooked politicians who profit by fraud would be pleased if delays and difficulties should develop on election day because of the citizens' want of familiarity with voting machines. They might use it as a pretext for a movement to return to the use of paper ballots. Indeed in Philadelphia it has already been proposed, before voting machines have been used, to rescind the measure under which they were adopted.

Good citizens will help to make the machines a success from the very outset by taking advantage of the opportunity the demonstrations offer to learn how to vote with them.

Rate Rise But a Prelude To Rail Rehabilitation

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

THE railroads of the country, whose credit has been seriously menaced by the collapse in earning power during the depression, have completed the presentation of their case before the Interstate Commerce Commission for a 15 per cent freight rate increase.

The Commission should make its decision promptly in accordance with the underlying facts.

Under the terms of the transportation act of 1920, the official body is charged by Congress with setting up a rate schedule which will permit the carriers to earn a fair return on their property value.

Even in highly prosperous times the railroads have not earned the stipulated fair return.

Under depression conditions the carriers have been threatened with credit starvation.

In the first quarter of 1931 net railway operating income of the railroads showed a decline of 39.3 per cent from the corresponding period in 1930. The annual rate of return on property value slumped to 2.07 per cent, compared with the standard of 5.75 per cent proposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission itself as a fair return.

UNLESS prompt, temporary relief is given, bonds of some of the strong carriers will be stricken from the list of investments eligible for savings banks, trustees and insurance companies.

In spite of the development of new agencies of transportation, the country is still largely dependent on the railroads for swift movement of men and materials.

It would be a social calamity to permit the nation's transportation arteries to harden.

The gradual whittling away of the rate structure through 5,000 individual adjustments in the last decade has impaired the sources of revenues for the carriers.

If the impartial Interstate Commerce Commission, with its eye chiefly on the public interest, finds that a blanket increase is necessary, it should not hesitate to act courageously.

FROM the criterion of intelligent self interest, the railroad chiefs can be counted on to apply the general permission with some discrimination on individual schedules. It would, of course, be futile to raise rates on commodities which would thus be driven to use competitive agencies, such as motor trucks and steamers.

Though urging sympathetic attention to the plea of the carriers for economic aid in an emergency, the Hearst newspapers regard the proposed rate increase as a temporary expedient only—a stop gap, a piecemeal remedy.

Thoroughgoing transportation relief will come from consolidating the railroads into coast to coast systems, which will be permitted by law to take over and co-ordinate other competitive agencies of transportation, including buses, trucks, steamers, airplanes and pipe lines.

With their greater financial responsibility and their excellent terminal facilities, the railroads are the logical agencies for developing a completely integrated, highly efficient transportation system.

ANY remaining obstacles in the anti-trust laws and in the Panama Canal and Dennison acts, which add to the economic waste in transportation, should be promptly repealed.

The two Canadian transcontinental lines, which also control hotel chains and miscellaneous means of transportation, suggest the type of genuinely national transportation arteries which the United States acutely needs.

Of course, constructive public regulation will be necessary to assure that the new economies and the beneficient results of credit rehabilitation are shared equitably with shippers, passengers, and with railroad employes.

National prosperity depends on excellent transportation, which hinges on solvent railroad systems.

No political pettiness should be permitted to deprive our country of the integrating influence of superlatively good transportation systems.

Meet Your Subconscious—And Blush

One way to acquire a large, healthy Inferior Complex is to go to a psychoanalyst and find out the TRUTH about yourself.

* * *

Once you get acquainted with your subconscious mind, you'll go right out in the back yard and eat worms. And never appear in public again, except after dark, and heavily veiled.

* * *

It's an awful shock to discover that you don't think anything that you THOUGHT you thought, nor believe anything that you believed you believed.

Just at first, the psychoanalyst lures you to talk and talk and talk about yourself, and, of course, you have the time of your life!

* * *

From talking about yourself, you are gently led into telling the man your DREAMS—and then it's all over with you! No matter WHAT you dream about or ever have dreamed about—whether it's last night's dance or stewed prunes or your worst enemy or the iceman or Capt. Kidd, it means something that will make you blush for yourself.

* * *

If you dreamed that you discovered a burglar in the linen closet, it's a sign that you don't love your husband, whom you thought you loved, but are seeking your soul-mate in secret places, or somewhere in the "luminous void."

You may have been perfectly happy with John or Jack or Bill up to that moment, but, after that, you know you are suffering from soul starvation. And you go about vaguely looking for a personable hold-up man or a handsome racketeer to come along and complete your life. Poor John!

* * *

Another thing you discover when you go to the analyst is that what you thought was your modest, retiring nature and your dislike for noisy, rowdy places which kept you away from big whoopee parties, was just plain CONCEIT. And a desire to dominate. Oh, yes it IS! The only reason you hate jazz parties and hot, blousy night clubs full of stupid, tipsy people is because you can't dominate the whole party and shine as the Queen of Jazz.

* * *

Oh, yes, dear heart, if you feel that you are a rather nice, normal, decent, clean-minded, generous-hearted sort of person, STAY that way. Don't go to one of those psychoanalysts and find out what a FAKE you are! Let sleeping dogs and your subconscious LIE!

A WEATHER WIZARD

By Archibald Henderson

The man-in-the-street is always complaining of the weather, and picking small flaws in the daily meteorological reports. Yet perhaps he does not stop to reflect how remarkable this service is, and the percentage of times the reports are correct, as compared with the comparatively small number of times it is positively incorrect. Meteorology is a science, but in the nature of things it is not an exact science like mathematics. Too many unknown uncertain and incalculable factors enter into questions of weather to make predictions infallible.

Consider the British Meteorological Office, for example, and see how it operates. Here are located a group of scientists under the direction of Dr. G. C. Simpson, C.B., F.R.S. He is actually that mythical clerk of the weather, of whom we have heard so much. For the British service, observations are made daily over an area extending from within the Polar Circle to North Africa, from Russia to the Azores. Weather readings are taken within this vast area four times daily, and broadcast by powerful wireless stations from each station to all the others. Seventy-five stations in North America also send in their observations daily.

Messages also come in from a number of ships plying the Atlantic Ocean, which co-operate in this service. There are, moreover, more than 60 stations scattered throughout the British Isles. Many of the observers are voluntary assistants, carefully trained by meteorological experts to do this sort of work. They may be lighthouse keepers, or farmers, or newspaper reporters, for example. They are expert observers of the sky, they have developed what is known as a weather eye. They wire in the results of their observations to Adastral House, Kingsway, London, the headquarters of the Meteorological Office.

There are hundreds of other stations which take observations a number of times daily. Also the health resorts make a point of maintaining their own meteorological stations, concerning themselves with the weather for the day, the temperature and duration of sunshine. Rainfall is measured at nearly 5,000 stations distributed over the British Isles. In addition there are the five observatories where meteorological and other sorts of observations are daily made with self-recording instruments. These stations are located at Kew, Eskdalemuir, Aberdeen, Lerwick and Valentia.

Dr. Simpson is a distinguished scientist, widely known for his discoveries. As recorded by Bridges and Tiltman in "Master Minds of Modern Science," from a speech in 1930 when Dr. Simpson received the Symons Memorial medal: His studies indicate that during a thunderstorm non-conducting clouds are floating within a conducting atmosphere, thus completely reversing accepted ideas . . . In a thunderstorm there is a region in which every time a raindrop breaks, the water of which it is composed receives a positive charge. A corresponding negative charge is given to the air and is absorbed by cloud particles which are being carried upward. The rain which falls when the air-currents are vertical is thus positively charged, while at a distance from this region it is negatively charged.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Quoted Dr. David Starr Jordan the other day—"There is no use loading a $10,000 education on a 10-cent boy."

Perhaps you agreed with that thinking of some of the college grads you've known. But I wonder if you'll agree with what he said next:

"COLLEGE MEN SHOULD MARRY COLLEGE WOMEN, AS THEY ARE MORE NEARLY MENTAL EQUALS. . . . A MAN SEES THE BEST WOMEN HE'LL EVER SEE WHILE IN COLLEGE."

Should he? Does he? Are college girls really the "best women?"

The girl who is qualifying for a definite profession and the girl who is working her way through college — they're exceptions, of course. More power to them! But how about the average college girl, who goes because the family sends her? Is the fact that she is in college proof of her superior character or intelligence? Or is it merely proof that her Dad has money, or influential friends whose "pull" was used to get her in?

Isn't it, sometimes, a greater proof of fineness for a girl to refuse to go to college, refuse to accept the sacrifice which a college course entails?

But, granted she's there and everyone's pleased — then what? What is there in campus life to develop that girl into a better wife than the stay-at-home or the working girl? True—she attends interesting lectures. Meets worthwhile people. But what does she get out of those lectures or those people, beyond a transient interest or stimulation? Are they really any more "educational" than a job as a first-class secretary would have been? They give her the FEELING of culture . . . BUT DO THEY MAKE HER CULTURED?

Does she learn more about those qualities on which marriage is based—patience, self-control, generosity, common sense, sympathy, courage, endurance, fair play?

She THINKS she does. She's sure that those four years of college have given her a better brain and a bigger heart as well as a diploma. But have they?

THE TRUTH IS THAT MANY A GOOD, PLAIN COOK WAS SPOILED TO MAKE A BACHELOR OF ARTS. AND THE GIRL WHO WORKS HER WAY UP FROM THE NOTIONS CAN FREQUENTLY BEAT THE COLLEGE GIRL HANDS DOWN, AT THE JOB OF LIVING.

The working girl has a knowledge of values which the college girl rarely gets in her segregated, specialized campus world. She has an adult campus point . . . a sense of responsibility . . . balance and endurance that cannot be acquired in the stiffest cram. She has made the grade herself, whereas the college girl has made it on her dad's money. And the college boy can "learn about living from her."

But she "knows too much" . . . has "seen too much?" Wake up, stranger. Who told you girls went blindfold on the campus?

Suppose it were YOUR boy.

Which would you prefer for his wife—

The college girl or her working sister?

FRANCE DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS, July 24.—Most of us, in recalling Paris after our departure, do not recall the Arc, Eiffel Tower, the Tuileries and other wonders as sharply as we do the fantastic splotchings of high comedy and stark tragedy that are expressed in street types. Nowhere are they so vivid. Nowhere so varied.

On every boulevard corner is the smiling lady of the news kiosks, circular little dens plastered with gaudy ads. Usually middle-aged, these women make their stands a friendly oasis for the stranger. Buy from one two mornings in succession and she suggests you pay at the end of the week or month.

She has an uncanny way of spotting you a block away in the weaving throng and as you are approaching waves your paper as though all day long she had been waiting only for this sale. And even more pleasant are those berry-eyed young adventuresses known as the midinettes.

They are of the shops and workrooms, needle and errand girls, etc., and get their name from blossoming on the boulevards at midday, when they surge out for frugal lunches. They drift happily about in groups of six or a dozen from noon until 2, invariably chattering, laughing and skylarking.

Not one earns more than 400 francs ($16) a month, yet they wear their stylishly cut frocks with an astonishing dash. They are artists in facial makeup, too, and carry themselves as gracefully and aristocratically as the girls from the fashionable boarding schools.

In contrast is the trimadeur, the incredibly ragged and blowzy outcast who roams the gutters with his spiked stick for cigar and cigaret ends. There is nothing furtive about his calling. He boldly pokes under your sidewalk table. At night under a Seine bridge he sorts his stock to sell to portiers and bargemen.

Then there are the facteurs—always old soldiers—who carry packages and bang so loudly at your door for their pourbois. Too, the white-bonneted Parisian nounou, or nurse, the plodding cartmen in harness, the roast chestnut sellers in white, the swarthy rug sellers, sidewalk artists, singers, magicians and acrobats.

* * *

Walking back of the Madeleine my wife pointed to a bright-jacketed string of magazines in front of a news hutch, two of which carried my name on their covers. I indulged a pouf-it-is nothing-shrug, but when she stopped a little further on in a shop I circled back and copped another quick peek.

Quitting an American patronized auberge at noon today I came upon the lovely and fragile Claire Luce, former Follies dancer, and her husband, Cliff Smith. Smith is recovering from a mad dog bite in Hollywood a few months ago and has grown quite plump. Miss Luce, suggesting the grace of light thistle-down on stage and off, expects to dance in New York when they return this fall. She has been greatly missed.

* * *

On every jaunt to France my night dreams invariably have as their locale my old home, Gallipolis, O. The Ohio town was settled by a group of quixotic French artists and Lafayette visited them there. The connection is remote yet it seems odd that always in my slumber here I am carried back. Last night I dreamed that W. G. Sibley, our local editor, and I visited one of the Louis at Versailles. But the Versailles in the dream was an exact replica of the Gallipolis fair grounds. And Louis, Mr. Sibley and I were walking about in satined knee breeches—and me with my trick legs!

* * *

At one of those innumerable alley street fairs off jousting Place Pigalle a barker presented a hefty "lady wrestler" this afternoon. She would meet all comers. A burly countryman in wooden shoes finally accepted the challenge. He was thrown three times in as many minutes, strolled off mystified, and the lady walked over to a crib and began suckling her nursing baby.

* * *

One drifts easily into Parisian ways. Not here a week as yet, my wife and I find ourselves drifting naturally and leisurely to a sidewalk table at l'heure d'aperitif, dining at 9:30 and resting a brief half hour or so on a curb bench on the way home. We find hot chocolate, considered a gooey concoction at home, refreshingly delectable here and watching crowds from the sidelines an unbelievably stimulating diversion.

* * *

A note from an editor on Le Matin asks me to write "a typical column in your style about Paris." I'll dash off something. But nothing hot. They might make me a bigger offer and touch off international complications.
